Board Urged For Area's Parks, Play

By IAN STREET

Community Welfare Council of Greater Victoria last night called for establishment of a combined parks and recreation commission serving the four local municipalities.

The bulky report of a survey of community recreation needs, 18 months in preparation, attached what it termed the "singular lack of public recreation services, program and leadership provided by municipal authorities."

MANY GAPS

It also said that while Greater Victoria is fortunate in the large number of private organizations offering recreational activities, and in volunteers who make these activities possible, there are "many gaps in service" and in places "chaos and confusion" as well.

"This is due to the lack of co-ordination and leadership which can be provided only by a properly organized and adequately staffed public authority," the report said.

It also called for joint municipal action on:

• Construction "at the earliest possible time" of a downtown centre to provide a full recreation program for senior citizens.

• Acquisition of land in co-operation with the provincial government and Capital Improvement District Commission for parks and other recreational uses.

• Development of a joint plan to upgrade community recreational facilities which, the report said, "in many ways... have fallen far short of accepted standards." Priority was urged for swimming pools.

• Entering an agreement with school boards in Greater Victoria and Saanich districts to obtain use of school facilities for a broad recreation program after school hours.

The report said establishment of the proposed parks

Seething JFK Raps 'Greed' Of Big Steel

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Kennedy yesterday accused "a tiny handful" of steel executives with ordering price increases in defiance of the national interest and with "utter contempt" for the American people.

Price Hike Break For Europe

LONDON (UPI)—A British steel executive said yesterday the new price increases ordered by American steel companies may open up the United States market to lower-priced foreign steel.

The official said that one big British steel group made the first break in the American market last year by winning contracts to supply tinplate to a West Coast consumer.

The new increases may eventually force domestic consumers to seek more and more British and foreign steel, he said.

Although many American metal consumers have strong loyalties to the domestic producers, he added, "the time may come when price will tell."

The president said executives of "big steel"—giant steel producing firms—showed irresponsibility that forced him to reconsider his plan to give tax relief to the steel industry. He added that federal agencies and Congress were investigating possible anti-trust action.

COSTS UNCHANGED

The president denied the steel companies' contention that the increase was needed to offset higher production costs. He said the labor department had informed him that "employment costs per unit of steel output in 1961 were essentially the same as they were in 1959."

He said he found it hard to believe that steel executives, "whose pursuit of private power and profit exceeds their sense of public responsibility, can show such utter contempt for the interests of 100,000,000 Americans."

"Some time ago I asked each American to consider what he would do for his country, and I asked the steel companies," Kennedy said, "in the last 24 hours we had their answer."

The president praised the United Steelworkers Union for negotiating the "non-inflationary" contract.

Angry Carpenters Quit Convention

VANCOUVER (CP)—The United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America walked out of the policy convention of the Canadian Labor Congress Wednesday and promptly disclosed that it had stopped its per capita payments to the CLC.

Peter Tuzick, international treasurer of the 44-member Carpenters' Union, told reporters that a stop-payment order had been made on the union's $4,000 cheque for March per capita payments.

In an interview, Mr. Tuzick said international president M. A. Hutcheson notified the Congress that per capita payments were being withheld in a telegram sent March 28.

RECEIVE ASSURANCES
The telegram said further per capita payments to the national trade union centre will be withheld "until such time as we've received the assurance of the Congress that our organization will receive the same consideration as all others."

The telegram said the CLC method of adjudicating the Carpenters' Union quarrel with the

Sub Fleet Ordered By Canada

Giant Frigates In Navy Program

OTTAWA (CP)—A new ship program for the Canadian Navy costing a minimum of $270,000,000—eight Canadian-built frigates and three British conventional submarines—was announced in the Commons Wednesday by Defence Minister Harkness.

The submarines will cost at least $10,000,000 each and will be purchased out of British production of the non-nuclear Ocean class.

Britain is expected to buy defence equipment of equivalent value in Canada. Two possibilities are the development of Canada's Caribou transport plane and the Canadian CL-44 long-range transport. The former appears more likely to be acceptable to the British.

NEGOTIATIONS
Mr. Harkness said the submarine purchase is "subject to satisfactory completion of negotiations with the British government."

Officials said these negotiations concern British defence purchases in Canada.

BIGGER WARSHIPS
The eight frigates, slightly larger than present St. Laurent, Restigouche and Mackenzie class destroyers, will have a basic cost of $30,000,000 each.

Mr. Harkness said the first frigate will be laid down in late 1962.

DIVIDE CONSTRUCTION
Outside the Commons, officials indicated construction will be allocated among the major shipyards in Canada. This was done in the case of the 24-destroyer program now nearing an end.

There will be a gap between the end of the destroyer program and the start of frigate construction but officials said this should not create any major problem for the yards.

MISSILE SYSTEMS
The frigates will carry two missile systems, one a medium-range anti-aircraft missile and the other a short-range anti-aircraft and anti-missile system.

They will carry helicopters and will be fitted with a fallout filtration system and a stabilization system to cut down the roll of the ships caused by the heavy seas. They will have a limited troop transport capability and will carry heavy guns for surface - to - surface action and shore bombardment.

WAITED WORD
The RCN and Canadian shipbuilders had long been waiting for a government announcement on a new naval program.

It is understood the defence department recommended that the government acquire six submarines, primarily to train the surface anti-submarine fleet.

NEED IN SUBS
Vice-Admiral Harry DeWolf, former chief of naval staff, has said the RCN has an immediate need for at least 12 submarines.

The navy hopes to retain the services of the three submarines it now has on loan from the Royal and United States Navies.

FIVE-YEAR LOAN
Two RN subs operate out of Halifax and are manned mainly by British crews. The American sub Grille is on five-year loan to the RCN and is based at Esquimaux, B.C. She is manned by a Canadian crew.

Officials said it is possible the RCN may obtain the first Oberon class sub one year after the date of the order.

CREW OF 60
It is believed the government had not intended to announce the program until the defence protection - sharing deal with Britain was firm. However, the announcement apparently was made because of the expected early dissolution of Parliament for a general election.

The Oberon displaces 2,610 tons submerged. She carries a crew of 60 and eight 21-inch tubes for launching torpedoes.

The first sub of this class was completed in November, 1960. The second was completed last

HERBERT HAMMILL
... 'very happy indeed'

Warship Prospects Please City Yards

Victoria shipyard officials were pleased last night to learn that at least one of the RCN's new missile-armed frigates will be built here.

Victoria MP A. del. McPhillips said in Ottawa yesterday that a Victoria shipyard will unquestionably receive a contract for one of the eight new warships.

He said he was confident of this and that a second of the new warships would also be constructed on the Pacific Coast.

McPhillips assured "I have been concerned over quite some period of time with new construction of warships and have, heretofore, assured the Victoria shipyards that there would be new construction of this kind," Mr. McPhillips said.

John Wallace, general manager of Yarrow's Ltd., said

"we certainly are pleased to hear about the shipbuilding program. I hope the West Coast will get a job for each of its three shipyards."

Herbert Hammill, general manager of VMD, said "we're very happy indeed. We certainly hope to participate in it."

At the same time, Mr. Hammill was "a little disappointed" that the government is going to give its three $10,000,000 submarine contracts to British instead of Canadian yards.

He doubted whether Canadian firms could build the submarines for the same price but believed that Canadian yards should have been given the job anyway.

Ready, Set ...

Market Heads Split On Commonwealth

By HAROLD MORRISON
WASHINGTON (CP)—The president of the European Community said Wednesday, the future of the Commonwealth is the biggest issue in Britain's negotiations to join the six-country economic community.

Dr. Walter Hallstein, head of the Community's Central Commission, said there is general agreement among the Common Market partners that because of the uneasy state of world conditions the Commonwealth must be preserved as a political system.

SPLIT ON TARIFFS

preservation of the political structure, Hallstein indicated in a speech before the National Press Club.

"Only experience can tell which school of thought is correct," he said.

MAJOR VIEW
Later, Common Market sources close to Dr. Hallstein said the major view among the partners is that Canada and other Commonwealth countries could maintain their economic strength without the preferences and that generally Europe and North America should work towards elimination of all preferences.

Overseas possessions of the Common Market countries now get preferential treatment in Europe in relation to other non-European competitors.

De Gaulle Replaces Premier

PARIS (Reuters)—President de Gaulle will replace Premier Michel Debre Saturday with Georges Pompidou, one of the president's closest advisers, government sources said Wednesday.

The move is reported to be aimed at clearing the way for an ambitious program of domestic reforms with strong left-wing appeal.

Pompidou, managing director of Rothschild's Bank here, is little known to the public. Regarded in inner circles as one of France's most brilliant men, Pompidou is a longtime follower of de Gaulle. He also initiated the first secret contacts between the French government and Algerian Muslim insurgent leaders.

Traditional Bread, Water Stays on Navy Brig Menu ...

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The traditional navy punishment of a piece of bread, a jug of water and solitary confinement will not be abolished.

This was the promise made yesterday by Rep. L. Mendel Rivers, chairman of a House armed services subcommittee, considering changes in the uniform code of military justice.

Rivers said bread and water was "as much a part of the navy as the hull of a ship."

He said the traditional law of the sea was a "strong thing. We aren't going to fool with that."

The major change under consideration is a military proposal to enable officers to give enlisted men stiffer punishment without the benefit of a court martial.

Drumming 'Out'

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The U.S. Marine Corps has banned "drumming out" ceremonies like the one used in Norfolk, Va., last week for a young marine with a bad conduct discharge.

The corps said it had completed its investigation of the incident and a directive would be issued ordering that the centuries-old discharge ceremony "is not to be used."

Queen Approves City Crest Design

Design for Victoria's coat of arms has been approved by Queen Elizabeth.

Her Majesty's approval was necessary as the royal crown is included in the design—based on the city's seal. Painting of the coat of arms is being done at the College of Herald in London, England, and the letters patent authorizing the use of the arms by Victoria are expected to arrive by June 15.

Progress report on the coat of arms was received at city hall yesterday from Lt.-Cmdr. Alan R. Biddoe of Sydney, Ont., who drew the original design.

Lt.-Cmdr. Biddoe also designed Esquimaux's coat of arms.

From a reader on the 800 block Monterey: "Why so extremely cynical? What company are you keeping, or aren't you well? We look in you for honest comment on current events."

"The B.C. Electric was no monster. Without it we would be badly off."

"My son, who has worked for them for years, says they have always been extremely good to their employees."

Yes, sir. And a tycoon is kind to her young.

From another reader:

"Thanks for being honest."

Toe-Wiggler

Wandering-eye report...

Girl waiting on corner, lifting one foot at a time out of her shoe, wiggling toes and putting foot back...

Tiny fellow hanging back at school gate, as all the other boys and girls go running in response to the buzzer.

"What's the matter, don't you want to go to school?"

passerby asks. Silence. Lips tremble.

"Good idea to go in now," passerby suggests. "I'll probably be better today."

The boy moves forward uncertainly, then begins to run toward the others at the school entrance, a small figure in the big empty school yard.

Bus Stop Drama

Man and girl at bus stop at night, self-consciously moving away from each other in the red and blue working light of a neon sign. (Onlooker watches from a doorway.)

They look as though they belong together, but have quarrelled. They station themselves at opposite ends of the stop, pretend to ignore one another.

But sometimes one turns her head slightly toward him; quickly turns away again when she thinks she has been observed. He does the same.

Carpenters

International Woodworkers of America was "ridiculous."

Mr. Terzick said the CLC was insisting that the status quo be maintained in Newfoundland.

Union is on the verge of signing an agreement for some 4,000 loggers employed by the Anglo Newfoundland Development Company while the IWA stands on the sidelines.

Barring an unexpected compromise the IWA-Carpenters dispute appeared to be headed for an explosion at today's session of the CLC convention.

The matter was brought to a head by the last-minute walk-out of the Carpenters.

UNFAIR TREATMENT

"We are convinced the Carpenters are not getting fair treatment," said George Bern-gough of Vancouver, a delegate of the 44,000-member union.

"We are leaving the floor of this convention. We are prepared to come back when we know we will get fair consideration on this dispute."

The delegation of the Carpenters then stood up and silently paraded out of the convention hall—while one delegate shouted from a microphone: "don't let them go."

CLC President Claude Jodan said he was surprised at the walkout but that the Carpenters were an autonomous union within the CLC.

IN A STATEMENT, he said:

"It is difficult to understand their action in view of the fact that the report to which they are taking objection has not yet been introduced on the convention floor."

The dramatic walkout was apparently aimed at forcing a showdown on the jurisdictional dispute between the Carpenters union and the 34,000-member IWA over Newfoundland loggers.

ward more neighborhood clinics, set up so that a group of co-operating physicians can share facilities that they could not afford individually.

The word clinic isn't a title, I think its indiscriminate use by many medical offices is wrong.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is it true that a woman's period is present only at a certain time of the month? Could you explain it, please?—Mrs. H.

Yes, since ovulation—the appearance of an ovum, or egg—from the ovaries—occurs only once a month as a rule. This happens, in the average 28-day cycle, usually between the 12th to 16th day from the beginning of the last period, but it often varies a day or more beyond that approximate timing. Fertilization of the ovum usually must occur within about 48 hours of the time of ovulation.

For a slightly different aspect, public health "clinics" began appearing at the early part of the present century—well-baby clinics, eye clinics, dental clinics, tumor clinics, maternal health clinics, mental hygiene clinics, all contributing vastly to our general health and well-being.

NOT HOSPITAL

A clinic isn't a hospital, but some clinics—Mayo, Cleveland, Leahy, Ford and others—have associated hospitals. And of course, a great many other hospitals have clinics.

Balinese at Royal

Dances Captivating

By BERT DINNY

There has not been anything quite as fascinating in Victoria as the dancers of Bali for quite some time. At the Royal Theatre last night they delighted a large audience.

Their music is fascinating and so is their dancing. Their use of color in costume, scenery and lighting is magnificent.

No doubt there are many significances in the dance movements or in the changing character of the music that all have the Balinese themselves feel. But the broad outlines are sufficiently captivating in themselves and the narration by enchanting Sonja Sepee is always interesting without being didactic.

Two of the dancers in the classical Legong last night were only eight and 10 years old—selected for this dance when they were three. But the company of 50 also included 1 Kotet Mario, greatest of dancers and teachers, as well as I Gusti Raka, his successor and pupil.

It is nothing short of phenomenal that musical compositions, often far longer than Western symphonies, full of intricate counterpoint and bristling with overtones, have been handed down from generation to generation without a written note or symbol.

year and nine more now are under construction.

Mr. Hartness said the three subs will make a "significant contribution" to the training of the RCN's and RCAF's anti-submarine forces.

Moreover, the effectiveness of a submarine as an anti-submarine weapon had been "greatly enhanced" in recent years.

The minister said nuclear subs were ruled out because of the high cost and time required for construction. It might be practicable in the future, however, to undertake submarine construction in Canada.

WONT HIT BUDGET

The ship construction program will not result in a bigger defence budget during the years the frigates are being built and the submarines purchased.

This is because the $450,000,000 CF-104 low-level jet bomber program for the RCAF will be nearly completed by the time appropriations for the ships are required.

SIX SUBS

The RCN in its 53-year history has operated six submarines before the Grise, acquired last year.

It had two submarines in the First World War and operated two others, gifts from Britain, between 1919 and 1922. It also had two German U-boats immediately after the Second World War. It sank one in an exercise and turned the other over to the U.S. and it was subsequently destroyed.

SHORE DUTIES

Three other staff members are included in what the report terms "minimum full-time professional staff for the recreation division." These are: one to share duties of playgrounds in summer and community centres in rest of year; one to direct activities of senior citizens in assist handicapped; and one to handle playing fields and coordinate sports activities.

EXPERIENCED PEOPLE

Parks administrators, the report said, may be found among the "well qualified and experienced personnel" now employed in this field by local municipalities.

It also noted if each municipality set up its own recreation program "at least as many staff members, if not more, would be required and would be considerably less effective singly than they would be as a team."

PLAY PROGRAM

The report recommended the joint commission immediately establish a summer play program raising funds through July and August, a well-rounded program of recreation with some emphasis on family activities, based in community or neighborhood centres.

Senior citizens now for the most part are left to shift for themselves, despite the fact that Greater Victoria has the greatest proportion of citizens over 65 of all major Canadian cities.

NO PROGRAM

The report added: "If it were not for the activities of the Silver Threads Service... and the efforts of various groups of senior citizens themselves there would be no recreation program for older people at all in Greater Victoria."

Tiny Monaco To Lose Privileges

PARIS (Reuters)—France yesterday served notice on Monaco it will end the 1951 agreement with the tiny Riviera principality governing taxes, mail, electricity and other services.

Falling a new agreement France will treat the principality of Prince Rainier like any other foreign country, imposing customs' duties, passport control and other measures.

Philip Advises Business:

Hat Doesn't Matter But Learn Language

LONDON (UPI)—Before leaving to visit relatives in West Germany yesterday, Prince Philip reported to British businessmen on his recently-completed 60-day tour of South America.

Speaking at a luncheon, Philip said right off the bat that he was no expert on South America.

NOT AN EXPERT
"A rush through eleven countries in 60 days, which includes travelling time, hardly entitles me to the status of an expert on South American affairs," he said, "although it seems as if some experts have even fewer qualifications."

One thing the Prince emphasized was that South Americans think of the British as "being rather slow and old-fashioned."

SUSPICIOUS
The Prince advised businessmen to enter into partnership with local manufacturers and said it was perfectly "natural" that South Americans should be suspicious of wholly-owned foreign enterprises.

Asked by one reporter if as a father he would encourage a boy to go to South America

U.K. Backs Political Europa

By DOUG MARSHALL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Britain has reassured the six Common Market countries that she accepts the political obligations as well as the economic benefits of market membership.

Edward Heath, the lord privy seal, told the community's foreign ministers in London this week that Britain now is ready to help them draft a new political map of Europe.

Since negotiations began last fall the British government has remained silent about the political implications of the European community formed by France, Italy, West Germany, Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg.

This has led to criticism in London and on the continent that the political issues were being deliberately hidden from the British people because of the delicate problem of national sovereignty.

Now the government apparently feels that the horse-trading in Brussels is sufficiently advanced that Britain can profitably join in the planning discussions.

Reports indicate that Heath remained vague about specific proposals for European co-operation but clarified British views about the main problems that have dogged the community's political talks in Luxembourg.

He also made it a clear condition of British entry that constitutional ties and arrangements for consultation with Commonwealth countries would be retained.

The European states have been unable to agree whether they want an integrated, supra-national political structure or a federated system that preserves present national unities.

France's President de Gaulle is in favor of a confederation—a "Europe of the Fatherlands"—but Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg prefer a tighter structure and think a British voice at the planning table would support them.

The six foreign ministers still could not agree at the last talks three weeks ago. The next round of discussions begins April 17 but there is little prospect Britain will be invited so soon.

Heath's statement brought Britain down on the side of those members of the community who wish to strengthen current European institutions and see them evolve into a structure above existing governments.

He also said Britain supports a closer integration of defence policies among members but stressed that NATO should remain supreme.

Cuba to Free Sick Invaders

MIAMI (UPI)—Fidel Castro will release 54 sick and wounded Cuban invasion prisoners and two doctors on Saturday as part of an agreement reached yesterday with an exile delegation.

The Cuban Families Committee here said it had received a telegram from a member of the four-member exile delegation which went to Havana Tuesday seeking to negotiate with Castro for the ransom and release of 1,179 invasion prisoners.

New York Schools Crippled

Teachers Strike Students Go Wild

NEW YORK (AP)—More than half the city's teachers went on strike for higher pay Wednesday, badly crippling the New York school system. A court order late in the day forbade further picketing.

Idle students by the thousands ran wild in school buildings and rampaged through the streets, as normal standards of classroom discipline collapsed.

Nearly a score of grade and secondary schools were closed tight, with their thousands of pupils sent home. Countless others went through the motions of holding classes.

The board of education made public plans to use the order as a prelude to enforcement of a New York State law prohibiting strikes by public employees. With removal of the pickets, teachers will be expected to return to their classrooms. If they refuse, they will forfeit their jobs under the state law.

Masterpieces Found

MARSEILLE (AP)—French police reported the recovery from a parked car of eight paintings by Paul Cezanne stolen last August from the Aix-en-Provence Museum.

The masterpieces were valued by officials at $2,000,000. The haul was the biggest in the wave of art thefts that swept western Europe and particularly the French Riviera in 1960 and 1961.

Police said the paintings were found in the back seat of a stolen automobile, carrying false licence numbers, that had been left on a Marseille street with one window broken.

Police said no one approached the car to recover the paintings.

Thorny Factor

SERVICES OF THE Victoria Public Library are to be reviewed this year as a result of demand for improvement and extension, and there can be little doubt that they will be found to have lagged behind the growth and the desires of the community.

Thus it seems almost certain that in due course the establishment of suburban branch libraries, and perhaps increased bookmobile service, will be recommended, and that as a consequence dispute will arise anew on intermunicipal sharing of cost and control.

Already there has been a hint of complaint from the Saanich representative on the library board, who points out that Saanich, Oak Bay and Esquimalt pay their share of cost but have no votes—only voices—in the board's deliberations.

This of course has been a matter of choice for the three municipalities. They have not seen fit to "buy into" Victoria city's original library asset, although they share current debt charges in the present system of cost-division based on book usage.

But it may be a thorny factor when and if the construction of branch libraries is considered and only Victoria representatives can vote. Should Victoria taxpayers with their own central library for which they mainly have paid the capital cost, now share in capital expenditure for branches in the neighboring districts, which will be of no particular service to them and which to some extent may divert shoppers from the downtown area?

It can be argued that branches would increase circulation in the outlying areas and thus boost the adjoining municipalities' share of costs, and diminish the city's, on the book-usage basis. And indeed with the general benefit in mind one hopes, although it does not seem likely, that a peaceful and satisfactory solution thus will be found.

But a virtue of Greater Victoria amalgamation is once again illustrated. If the whole community were one, there could be no quarrel of this sort about improving a most valuable amenity.

Judicial Wisdom

MAGISTRATE WILLIAM OSTLER showed the judicial common sense that has marked his occupation of the local bench ever since his incumbency by rejecting the idea that a taxi-driver must have a permit from each of the municipalities his cab enters.

Not in his words but in the inference to be drawn this is plain nonsense.

In dismissing the charge against a Sidney driver for entering the city with two airport passengers, Mr. Ostler said in effect that any such interpretation of the Motor Vehicle Act did not hold water and characterized it as "absurd." Further that he was sure the legislature never intended any such thing, which doubtless it never did.

A taxi-cab driver is bound to answer the call of passengers and obviously the journey might take him into any area; in Greater Victoria, for instance, he is obliged to cross municipal boundaries every day.

One police permit under the act, in the opinion of the magistrate, is enough. Most people will agree with him.

This area is sufficiently balkanized as it is without adding obstacles to the free passage of people from one section to another whether by foot or motor vehicle.

Oak Bay Marina

THE OWNER-ELECTORS of Oak Bay next Tuesday are being asked by referendum whether they are in favor of a private company being given a 30-year lease to build and operate a marina behind the recently-built Turkey Head breakwater.

A letter sent by the reeve to the voters explains that the proposal has the unanimous backing of the council.

The general view is that as the federal government has spent more than a quarter-million dollars of taxpayers' money on the breakwater, the best use should be made of the amenities provided. Few will doubt that the proposed marina is a step in the right direction and will enhance the boating facilities along the Oak Bay waterfront.

What may worry some electors, however, is that no reason is given why a rental is not being charged the operators, since so much public money has already gone to make the project possible. The voters might also wonder if their shorefront rights will be restricted to any extent. The reeve's letter must leave many electors in doubt.

Golden Dollars

THE GOLDEN TRADING dollars sponsored by the Victoria Kiwanis Club are the first tangible souvenirs to appear commemorating this city's 100th birthday.

For this the local organization should be congratulated, for while many others dithered, they acted. And acted wisely to come up with something which will not only provide thousands of Victorians with a permanent and worthwhile keepsake of the occasion but also spread the name and fame of our city throughout the whole continent of North America.

Some 100,000 of these attractive medallions—which apart from carrying the name of Victoria and marking its centennial year, feature the bastion of old Fort Victoria and British Columbia's floral emblem, the dogwood—have been ordered with metal ready to strike another 50,000.

Already requests for them have come in from all over Canada and many parts of the United States, while earlier this week city merchants began displaying them on their counters. With the expectation of having more than 100,000 of the coins circulating far and wide by mid-summer Victoria city will be well advertised indeed—an additional and valuable bonus to our tourist trade.

Victoria will also benefit from the gold dollars in another way: all the profit made from those which are not redeemed at their face value of one dollar by the club or spent in trade with city merchants before October 31 this year, will go toward supporting Kiwanis Club charities.

Thinking Aloud

"... of shoes, and ships,

BY TOM TAYLOR

NEWS that Patrick Wolridge-Gordon, grandson of Dame Flora and twin brother of the heir-apparent to Dunvegan Castle, may lose his British parliamentary seat because of his sweetheart, is bound to have the MacLeods of this city polishing their claymores.

The fiery cross burns when Highland romance is threatened.

Young Wolridge-Gordon's fiancée is the daughter of a prominent MRA leader and his own interest in the moral rearmament movement already had him up on the carpet before the Conservative bigwigs of his Aberdeenshire constituency.

Taking a dim view of MRA they ticked him off last October.

Now his prospective marriage has caused them to withdraw their official support at the next election.

He shouldn't need it. Romance should win out, unless the Gaels of the Gordon area have forgotten their history.

Who says there is no magnanimity among nations?

The U.S.A. has just presented the highest military decoration it ever gives to a foreigner, the Legion of Merit, to a Japanese general for his postwar co-operation with American forces in Japan.

And this same general, then an air fleet staff officer, helped to draw up the attack plan on Pearl Harbor.

If anyone had suggested on Dec. 7, 1941, that 20 years later the United States would be honoring one of the planners of this "day of infamy" he would have been escorted post-haste to a psychiatrist.

Thus does time change the ebb and flow of enmity and friendship, national as well as personal.

Why do mothers grow grey?

No answer is required.

But they have nothing on us, our telephone girls tell me. They are called on to solve all manner of puzzling problems and respond to some queer requests.

Such as how best to write a proposal of marriage.

A newspaper, you see, is thought to be an extra public reference library.

Our girls, being efficient and courteous, do their best to satisfy all callers, even if, as one of them says pointing to her hair, "I'm going grey in the process."

One thing is sure; they are fast becoming experts in the oddities of human nature.

Did you think "The Twist" was a new invention?

Here is a verse sent in by a reader, culled from a song, "Our Court Ball," sung in 1894 by the late Albert Chevalier of London music hall fame.

Come along to me on Saturday night,
Come along to me and you'll see a sight.
Down our little court we give it a tone
By 'oldin' a dancin' class all on our own.

There's Ria and Bill and ginger-aleed Tilly,
They're right enough first to swell up the list.
They're ready and willin' an' fall at Kadillin';
But my little Kio does the twist.

You see; nothing new under the sun except a sputnik.

Mr. Pickersgill's scheme has another transparency. Usually he is a more artful dodger.

He is clearly goading Mr. Diefenbaker to abolish Closure—and for the reasons already stated. He reminded the Commons last week that Mr. Diefenbaker had promised abolition of Closure after the pipeline debate but before he became prime minister. Then, he said, in 1958 after being prime minister he had repeated that undertaking. Why hadn't he done it?

Mr. Pickersgill (and as he was the only Liberal speaker we can presume he was speaking for his party) is thus using the instrument of "broken pledges" to manoeuvre the prime minister into doing something for which he perhaps has not now a complete conviction.

After the pipeline debate it was understandable that Mr. Diefenbaker would in some heat undertake to abolish Closure. He is impaled on an unfortunate pledge. But clearly since then he has cooled in his intention or he would have done it long ago. Mr. Pickersgill is now trying to manoeuvre him into the position where the Liberals would seem to be in favor of abolishing Closure and the Conservatives are reluctant to abolish it.

Still, this writer hopes the government will reconsider its position that a committee should recommend abolition of Closure. There are times when a government should be able within the rules to enforce its will upon Parliament. That is a basic principle of popularly elected government. Without it the opposite becomes true: the minority can force its will upon the majority by contin-

Let those taken in by Mr. Pickersgill's innocent smile today as he rushes to tidy up Parliament rules be reminded of the heat and bitterness the Liberal misdeeds left in Dr. Forsey's mind even a year after the event. He wrote:

"They understand what parliamentary government is all about no more than I ever one of them had lived all his life in the jungles of the Congo. For them, parliamentary government is just a matter of votes, of ballots instead of bullets. We count heads instead of breaking them. That is all. As both the prime minister and the Speaker pointed out at the time, the House was allowed to vote on the pipeline bill; it was even allowed to vote on the breaches of the rules. What more could anyone ask? Nobody was shot. No heads were broken. The majority won. Isn't democracy simply the will of the majority?"

That is not just searing sarcasm; it is a factual report of what transpired. But it isn't a complete report. It doesn't tell of the Liberals stinging Onued and unyielding obstruction. In a federal state that could mean one province could be the tail that wags the dog.

Mr. Erhart Regier, of the New Democratic Party, put the point well in the debate: "Inasmuch as we generally have elections every four years I believe that once the people have decided upon those in whom they have confidence it behooves the opposition groups and more particularly opposition leaders to remember that in the long run the majority party must be permitted to have its way. If the majority abuse their power the electors will have a chance to express their opinion in the next election."

Mr. Regier was not for Mr. Pickersgill's idea of riding in on a white horse and slaying the dragon of Closure in one fell blow. He wanted a committee to think about it and to retain, at least, some form of Closure.

Some reference has been made to the first use of Closure by the Borden government on the Naval Aid Bill in 1913. I have looked up the Borden memoirs and find he was most reluctant to use Closure and that he had at the end of almost endless opposition obstruction asked Sir Wilfrid Laurier to at least name a date on which he would agree to "make it have all the time for debate he desired." Sir Wilfrid would give no date, and so Closure was used—legally and properly, making the majority's will the law of the land.

But note Sir Robert Borden's comment then that in retrospect he considered he had made a mistake in so long putting off the use of Closure. He had done so to "make it manifest to the country that there was systematic and organized obstruction for the purpose of preventing the passage of the bill." But it had only unnecessarily frayed tempers and exhausted members "so that they lost in great measure their usual self-control."

If Borden had had it to do all over again he would have used Closure sooner rather than later, but he would have used it properly.

It is my belief that there may often be a proper need of had urged the House to go easy on abolishing Closure, Mr. Pickersgill wondered out loud what "kind of letter Mr. Regier is going to get from Mr. Knowles when he reads his speech."

Mr. Diefenbaker fell for this too easily, retorting at once: "That is a very penetrating question and one that I am sure penetrated the sensibilities of the honorable member of Burnaby-Coquitlam (Mr. Regier)."

There we were again, Mr. Pickersgill implying that Stanley Knowles had fought his great fight in that debate against Closure, and Mr. Diefenbaker going along with the implication.

How far from the record can Commons debate get?

Stanley Knowles did act as the dedicated champion of parliamentary procedure in that 1956 debate, aided brilliantly and with conviction by the then inexperienced Davis Fulton.

But Stanley Knowles was not protesting against Closure as such but against its abuse and the abuses of rules which followed. I know, for I was there. But I have also looked back to Hansard.

In the very beginning M. J. Coldwell, a fortnight before the fearful scenes in the Commons, pronounced the government's action in improper introduction of Closure as "a most atrocious proceeding, unknown in a Canadian Parliament at any time in the past."

He termed it "a most outrageous proposal." He was speaking of the improper method of announcing Closure.

"Today," he went on, in that controlled rage that is his when genuinely moved, "today we had a demonstration of 'Who Is Going to Stop Us?' We cannot stop them. But one thing we can do is this. We can expose them."

"Who's in control here?" If he could not get a clear answer he'd be right in looking for another form of government.

In closing his remarks Mr. Diefenbaker welcomed Mr. Pickersgill's change of heart about Closure and reminded him that Sir Winston Churchill had one time observed that "I have never developed indignation as a result of having to eat my earlier words." It was a remark pointed at Mr. Pickersgill, but in the interest of good government it might be well now if the prime minister would apply it to his own hasty assertion in 1957 that he'd abolish Closure.

Which brings me to the last strangeness of the debate. After Mr. Regier, the CCFer,

... no matter what roadblock or difficulty the opposition puts in the road of the government that does not give the government the right to break the rules..."

... the practice of the majority by its superior numbers in declaring black is white..."

... when Closure is imposed in this way, by the moving of a motion that is out of order it is a blow that strikes at the very heart of our democratic system..."

That will be enough, I think, to indicate that Mr. Knowles was fighting not against Closure but its abuse.

As to the attitude of the government at that time, as distinct from their actions, observe that Hansard reports my last quotations as follows:

Mr. Knowles: "... When Closure is imposed in this way, by the moving of a motion that is out of order..."

Some Honorable Members:

Time—

Mr. Knowles: It is a blow that strikes at the very heart of our democratic system.

In other words, they were bored by Mr. Knowles' defence of the rules of Parliament and wanted to get on with their outrage.

All dirty linen being washed again by Smith, someone might say?

Let them say as they please. Mr. Pickersgill's attempt to misrepresent the Liberal outrage of 1956 (and he was in the middle of it) is too unpleasant a dose of political craftsmanship for me to stomach, especially as judging from most press and radio commentators he seems to be getting away with it. Even the prime minister let him get away with it.

There comes a time when, like Al Smith, one wants to say "let's look at the record." By not looking at the record Parliament is on the verge of weakening not only its rules but its principles.

(From The Ottawa Journal)

That warning came two weeks in advance of the lowest depth of the government's action, thus it cannot be said they made their mistakes in haste or without intent.

But I was speaking of Stanley Knowles, who Mr. Pickersgill suggests would be upset by Mr. Regier's caution in abolishing Closure.

Here are just a few of Mr. Knowles' comments on the government's procedural methods in May, 1956:

"... it is a clear violation of standing order 33..."

"... I am sure that the prime minister understands this but I am shocked that he flies in the face of it..."

"... no matter what roadblock or difficulty the opposition puts in the road of the government that does not give the government the right to break the rules..."

... the practice of the majority by its superior numbers in declaring black is white..."

... when Closure is imposed in this way, by the moving of a motion that is out of order it is a blow that strikes at the very heart of our democratic system..."

That will be enough, I think, to indicate that Mr. Knowles was fighting not against Closure but its abuse.

LETTERS to the Editor

To be considered for publication in this or in past columns must be in the hands of the editor, not more than 100 words in length, and if signed with a pseudonym, must be accompanied by the writer's name and address.

Re all this discussion about Foul Bay and Bird Cags, when I first came to Victoria many years ago I was told that the former was named by hydrographers of the Royal Navy, because it is a bad place for ships to anchor.

When I was at school in London many more years ago I was taught that the well known spot Birdcage Walk, was an instance of the anglicization of a French word, "becage," which means cess, cesspool, wooded area or shrubbery. For some centuries after 1066 the upper echelons of English society spoke French and regarded English as more suitable for the lower classes. This helped them to feel superior and saved them the trouble of learning English, and accounts for a number of the words in our language today.

It would seem an excess of zeal on the part of the would-be reformers, to abolish such place-names as these with historical associations.

Logical and Desirable

Being resident on Paul Bay Road, one cannot help being concerned about the rather distasteful controversy which has followed the suggestion that the name be changed to University Way.

It appears that those most opposed, and most vocal, are resident south of Oak Bay Avenue. I am quite sure that no one would wish to rob these good folk of the evident satisfaction they derive from dwelling amid the sylvan beauty and in the suburban atmosphere found there.

Critical Situation

In your newspaper you had an editorial, "On the Brink," quoting General Foulkes' warning. Has it ever occurred to these advocating peace and disarmament that they are in a highly critical situation? That some men or countries with greed or ruthlessness will always seek to dominate the world... You cannot change human nature by begging for peace and disarmament at this juncture. The world has been dominated by one empire after another, all acquiring for a period world dominance, brutal dominance and later gentler dominance.

We are now faced with a situation of a division between people of religion, loyalty and principles, against a large part of the world dominated by dictatorship. As long as the latter have any fear of getting worse than they can give they will hesitate to start a war. We should always be prepared in our present world of trickery and subterfuge.

Heated Exchange

'Aspersions Cast On Army Officers'

OTTAWA (CP)—Defence Minister Harkness said Wednesday that R. W. Harkness cast aspersions on the honesty of the officers of a British Columbia militia unit and Western Army Command.

The House leader of the OCF-New Democratic Party group, heatedly declining to withdraw, said Mr. Harkness cast aspersions against a member of the army.

'GIVEN CHOICE'
The exchange grew out of Mr. Harkness' contention Monday that two non-commissioned officers in the 17th squadron of the 8th Field Regiment, Royal Canadian Engineers, were given a choice of leaving the NDP or the militia.

Correct, said Mr. Harkness, Army regulations forbid political activity by militia during

REMARKS
He said that an army chaplain—identified earlier as Capt. the Rev. W. E. Mundy—had been asked to refrain from political activity in the army at Creston.

Capt. Mundy, Kootenay East NDP candidate for the next federal election, had indicated he was resigning from the army, Mr. Harkness said.

'EFFORT MADE'
Mr. Harkness said his information was that both the NCOs had made some effort before a parade to influence their companions in favor of the NDP. One was president of the Creston NDP club and the other was chairman of the membership committee.

Resignation

Sooke School Board chairman John S. Williams submitted his resignation at a board meeting Tuesday night. Reason for the resignation was non-support of the board on reorganization of Belmont Senior Secondary School and James Fisher Junior Secondary School. The resignation was tabled until the next board meeting.

Duel with Gunman Won by Policeman

TORONTO (CP)—A motorcycle policeman faced almost certain death Wednesday night before gunning down a pistol-toting man who was trying to hold up a motorist.

Const. Harry Midgley was on his motorcycle when the motorist, Archie MacPherson, 37, beckoned him to his car.

As the constable approached the car Mr. MacPherson yelled that he was being held up and warned that the other man in the car was armed.

Robert Gee, 28, leaped from the other side of the car and began running up a west end Toronto street, with Const. Midgley in pursuit.

Gee turned, aimed and pulled the trigger of his gun. It misfired. He ran a few more yards and then tried again. Again the gun failed to fire. In both cases the range was point-blank.

Gee ran again, but the third time he turned Const. Midgley fired and dropped his man with two shots in the abdomen—one high and one low.

Gee lived only a few hours after he fell to the street in his own blood.

Mr. MacPherson said he met Gee in a downtown tavern and that Gee had asked for a ride to the west end of Toronto.

On the way, Gee demanded money.

Grits Blamed For Holdup In Commons

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson said Wednesday the government would like to have Parliament pass its major legislation before the coming election but is faced with opposition obstruction in the Commons.

He said the government would not use closure and is trying to have the closure rule abolished.

He accused the Liberals of holding up the estimates—money to be voted for the fiscal year which has already ended—for 20 days this month, compared with the Conservatives' use of nine days in the last five years they were in opposition before the 1957 change of government.

Justice for Indians Promised by John D

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker told a United Church minister Wednesday that he couldn't use his office to decide in the favor of one company or another in the awarding of timber rights on the Tsimshian Indian reservation in British Columbia.

Rev. Peter Kelly of Nanaimo, sent here by the 1,000-member Prince Rupert band, met the prime minister for about 10 minutes before Mr. Diefenbaker went into the Commons.

NEW BIDS CALLED

The 75-year-old minister sought Mr. Diefenbaker's support in awarding the timber rights of the reservation to Beaufort Industries of Victoria, as soon as possible to provide employment for the band.

The rights, originally awarded Shoreline Lumber Company of Vancouver, have been put up for new bids by Citizenship Minister Fairclough because of objections to the Shoreline bid raised by the band and in the Commons.

Mr. Kelly said that this would take too long and that the Indians needed employment. He quoted Mr. Diefenbaker as saying that he was in office

Timber Sale Documents Privileged

OTTAWA (CP)—Government documents covering proposed or actual timber sales from a British Columbia Indian reservation are privileged, Citizenship Minister Fairclough said Wednesday.

Mrs. Fairclough declined in the Commons to meet a request from Frank Howard (CCF—Skeena) to make public certain correspondence since 1954 regarding Tsimshian Indian reservation in the Prince Rupert area.

She announced some days ago that an arrangement to sell timber from the reservation was being dissolved for a new one to see "that full justice is done to the Indians."

Mr. Kelly, a native Indian, was given another appointment for Thursday with the prime minister.

CANCELLED

The Shoreline contract was cancelled after Judy LaMarsh, Liberal member of Parliament for Niagara Falls, said the contract went to the low-bidding Shoreline Company because the company backed the Progressive Conservative party.

Mr. Kelly said Shoreline had bid only $792,000 against $1,788,000 by Beaufort. He said the contract should be awarded to the highest bidder at once.

Mr. Kelly said he was chosen by the band to come to Ottawa and see the prime minister because of the urgency of the situation.

FAIRCLOUGH UPHOLDS

The prime minister saw him, he said, "because he told me some time ago that he would see me anytime."

In the Commons, Mrs. Fairclough was upheld by a vote of 188 to 6 in her refusal to make public correspondence since 1954 concerning proposed or actual timber sales from the reservation.

Many Parts in Good Shape, Says Mayor

Is City Hall Worth Saving?

Mayor R. B. Wilson is investigating the possibility of rehabilitating, repairing and renovating Victoria's 84-year-old city hall as an alternative to a new city hall building.

Mayor Wilson, Ald. Arthur Dorell and city manager C. C. Wyatt spent several hours yesterday inspecting the building and checking over the weak points in its construction.

For several years city planner Frederick Clark has reported that the building is structurally unsound, contravenes the city's own fire regulations and that the electrical wiring is overloaded.

IS IT FEASIBLE?

One recent estimate of the cost of rehabilitating the building was about $25,000.

"I am not sure at this point if it is feasible," Mayor Wilson said after his lengthy tour of inspection.

"But we have come to the conclusion that many parts of the building are in very good shape and that while some departments, particularly the engineering department, are crowded in space, heads of other departments feel they have adequate space and that their working conditions are satisfactory."

UNUSED SPACE

"The worst part of the building is the third floor (closed to the public) in which there is a considerable area of unused space."

"I think this could be rehabilitated and I think we should ask our engineering and architectural staff to examine the building carefully and come up with an up-to-date report on its condition and what it would cost to rehabilitate the areas that are in poor shape."

Girl Alleges 'Swami' Seduced Her

TORONTO (CP)—A 15-year-old high school girl testified Tuesday her yoga teacher seduced her by promising to transmit "divine power" to her.

"He said I needed divine power to control my emotions," the girl told Magistrate C. A. Turnbull. "He said that if I told anyone I would lose this divine power he had given me."

The magistrate ordered David Kahn, alias Dharmy, alias Swami Divanda, 43, to stand trial by judge and jury on a charge of carnal knowledge.

Life Pension $6,000 For Senate

OTTAWA (CP)—A resolution calling for a lifetime pension of $6,000 a year for present members of the Senate who would be affected by the government's retirement-at-75 measure was introduced in the Commons Wednesday.

Prime Minister DeLoach made only a brief statement.

The government already has a bill before the House which would compel senators, now appointed for life, to retire at 75. It has not yet been debated.

The pension resolution applies only to senators who were members on April 6, 1962. Senators are paid $10,000 a year.

Competition Promised

OTTAWA (CP)—Competitive tenders will be called for supplying heating plants for the new Doshobor security camp being built near Agassiz, B.C. Public Works Minister Walker said in the Commons Wednesday.

He told Harold Winch (CCF—Vancouver East) that most of the materials will be bought locally on a tender basis.

The prefabricated buildings will be supplied by the defence department, Mr. Walker added.

Hot Work Cooled Off

OLIVER (CP)—An Oliver citizen found it hot work when he volunteered to round up stray dogs. On collecting his bounty he retired to a local inn to quench his thirst and sometimes later found himself surrounded by the RCMP for intoxication in a public place.

Teen-Ager Fined

Kenneth Gordon Rogers, 18, of 3064 Dencair was fined $20 in city police court yesterday for entering the Ingham Hotel beer parlor, being under the legal age.

story have started to pull away from the wall. City staff using the stairs to reach records stored on the third floor have been warned to walk as close to the wall as possible to avoid putting unnecessary strain on the structure.

Mayor Wilson said it is possible there would be sufficient space in the building, including the third floor, to house all city departments.

The question of repairing city hall will likely come before a meeting of city building committee Tuesday morning.

Repair of city hall would save taxpayers money, Mayor Wilson said. He estimated the cost of moving to another building and altering it to fit the city's needs—or building a new city hall—would range between $700,000 and $1,000,000.

Earlier this year, the former Power Commission on Blanshard Street was being considered as a possible new city hall.

But negotiations broke down because of the government's plans to merge the commission and the B.C. Electric into the B.C. Hydro and Power headquarters of the B.C. Authority.

Fire Victims Impaired

VANCOUVER (CP)—The assistant city pathologist told a coroner's jury Wednesday that his tests indicated two persons who perished in a burning house fire last week were impaired by alcohol.

The fire took the life of Roy Anderson, 62, and Mrs. Mildred Robb, 64, in still listed in critical condition.

B.C. May Lose Hub for Trucks

VANCOUVER (CP)—Opening of the Rogers Pass through the Selkirk Mountains this summer—providing a fast, all-Canadian road route from the Prairie to the coast—may make Calgary the hub of Western Canada's multi-million-dollar trucking industry.

That was the opinion expressed Wednesday by leading truckers who have their headquarters here. One firm, Canadian Freightways, already has announced Calgary will become its home base. The Automotive Transport Association, an organization of B.C. truckers, has launched an investigation into the effects the opening of the pass will have on the Western Canada trucking business.

The pass will cut 250 miles from the normal truck route through the United States—a fact which could mean the saving of hundreds of dollars per trip in fuel, cost of U.S. licences and salaries.

Garden Notes

How's Daisy Doing?

By M. V. CHENUT, FRANK

How did you make out with your Colonist free seeds of the Glorious Daisy? I'd be most interested to hear how long it took for the seeds to come up, for my own batch of seedlings really surprised me.

According to the book, these perennial seeds are supposed to take anywhere from three weeks to a month before the seedlings appear above ground, but mine were through in only five days. Sown on St. Patrick's Day, the first seedling poked its nose through the covering of peat moss in my flower pot on March 22.

I must admit I cheated a little bit, because I had the plastic-covered pot under my desk lamp and only a few inches from the electric light bulb, and evidently the warmth and high humidity under the plastic wrap brought the seeds up in a hurry. I have a fine batch of sturdy young plants, potted up individually in Jiffy pots, sitting in my coldframe now, and they should be ready to set out in the garden probably around the first week in May.

The desk lamp stunt worked so surprisingly well with the Glorious Daisy seeds, I am starting some of the Colonist's free Candytuft seeds in the same way, although the bulk of my Candytuft has been sown outdoors in an experimental frame. I am growing a double dose of these Giant Hyacinth-flowered Candytuft plants this year, for we never seem to have enough white flowers in the garden to take care of the demand.

Neighbors are always scrounging our white flowers for wedding receptions, church altar decoration, or for various social occasions, so we never have enough for ourselves. This year I am raising enough Candytuft to fill one whole bed 30 feet long by four feet wide, which should look terrific by moonlight and should provide enough white flowers to have them coming out our ears.

John Crosby

Daydreams of Real World

The theme of The Moviegoers, Walker Percy's novel which won the National Book Award, is that life (Real Life, we used to call it when we were young) is becoming increasingly shadowy while the shadows on the Backing screen (Cinemascope, Technicolor, VistaVision, and all that) have much sharper and clearer outlines. In fact, the very title of the book sounds this motif.

Now, along comes A Thousand Clowns, the best comedy to strike Broadway in a good many years, and again that theme is sounded like muted French horns. Life on the silver screen is better than out in the sunshine. Of course, that is not entirely what A Thousand Clowns is all about. (In fact, sometimes it's hard to say what A Thousand Clowns is all about.)

But one of the peculiarities of the hero, played by Jason Robards, is to slip away into the movie houses on Forty-Second Street and watch double features instead of looking for a job. There are 11 motion picture houses on that street, he tells his young son despairingly, and how is one to resist that kind of temptation?

However, there is an added twist of—shall we call it—real life—in the play. Back in the '30s, we had all those plays about the harshness of life, and the heroes were essentially either fleeing from or grappling with these harsh realities. But now the heroes—in both The Moviegoers and A Thousand Clowns—are fleeing not from the harshness of life but from the absurdity of it. The hero had been employed. There's no security of well-paid employment. He'd been the writer of the Chuckles the Chipmunk show. Very well paid. Very good at it. Very much in demand. He walked out—not once but several times—because he considered this essentially a ludicrous profession.

Of course, you may well say: how many people do you know who write the Chuckles the Chipmunk show? Not many, I admit. But Chuckles the Chipmunk, being a television show, is a mass entertainment for children. And while the author, Herb Gardner, has picked an unusually wacky job to saddle his hero with, the point is valid, modern, and terribly important. Paul Goodman has already written a book, Growing Up Absurd, which largely concentrates on the feeling of 'utility of most workers with the meaninglessness of work in a button-pushing world.

Gardner has taken that idea a little further than that. Mr. Robards is playing a non-conformist hero who is saying essentially: "It's not me who's nutty. It's you who are nutty for watching Chuckles the Chipmunk, for producing it, for buying the products, for taking the industry seriously that puts out this gunk." And aren't we?

Yet, even he, Chuckles the Chipmunk, is part of the world of the flickering screen which occupies so much of all our time and is becoming—as The Moviegoers here puts it—more real than his own life. It's an important subject. How much of your life is spent staring at a stage, a movie screen, a TV screen? Or, when you're not doing that, reading about the love life of Elizabeth Taylor?

Hollywood Today

By Sheilah Graham

Old Flames Never Die

HOLLYWOOD (NANA)—The current Marlene Dietrich-Mike Whiting meetings are a continuation of where they left off when Elizabeth Taylor flew to Europe to marry Mike, much to his expressed astonishment at the time and Marlene's annoyance. Marlene and Mike were so close then that he even used to accompany her to Max Factor's here and help her choose her wigs, now so fashionable with women but an innovation in those days. . . . Miss Dietrich, however, has never let a little thing like a romance break up her 30-some-year marriage to California chicken farmer Rudolf Nether.

Milton Berle has a six-month guarantee for his hole of seaweed salesman in It's a Mad, Mad, Mad, Mad World. It sounds almost as long as Cleopatra. . . . Jack Benny backed out of the same movie after a searching look at his 68 years and his TV series.

Librarian won't be able to get back to his $400,000, 25-room mansion in the Hollywood Hills until May 16, and then he can stay only a week until he takes to the road again. "But it will be a good place to retire to," said Lee, laughing as usual on his way to the bank.

Willy Brandt, mayor of West Berlin, plays himself in Tunnel 28, the story of a batch of East Berliners who dug their way to freedom under the wall.

It will be a tight squeeze for Stephen Boyd between Doris Day and Gina Lollobrigida. No, this is not another Taylor-Fisher-Barton affair. Steve completes Jumbo with Doris here April 18. Leaves that night for Rome. Starts Imperial Venus with Gina April 19. The breakdown comes April 20.

Jack Carson is a far cry from the late sensitive Leslie Howard. In spite of which, Jack plays the role of poet in The Petrified Forest, in his home-town of Milwaukee. I saw Howard in the play and in the movie. It will be hard to be even nearly as good. I have a feeling that there is a mistake somewhere and Jack is playing the gangster.

Horror director William Castle told me recently he had reformed as far as chiller-dillers were concerned. Not a bit of it. He has signed with Hammer Films in England to make a series of spine-tinglers, starting with The Old Dark House and including Maniac. Ugh!

Frank Sinatra's private plane, "El Dago," will follow him to Europe and Israel for the convenience of the star, who will use it for short hops between the various cities on his round-the-world tour for underprivileged children.

Elizabeth Taylor should keep her chin up when photographers are around. I mean this literally. With her head down, there's quite an extra one.

I don't know how Jackie Gleason will find time for that TV show in the fall. He's so much consumed these days about making movies. This started with that bit in The Hustler, which won him an academy nomination. He followed with his own story, Gigot, in Paris. Coming up in Hollywood is Papa's delicate condition. After which Gleason wants to star in a movie about Judge Roy Bean, half-wolf, half-lawman west of the Pecos who was madly in love with Jerry Lily Langtry. It was a George Bernard Shaw kind of romance. They never met.

First War 'Mystery' Ship On Block as Veteran Tug

One of the last active steam togs on the B.C. coast, Canadian National No. 1, which is offered for sale at Point Ellice, has had a long and colorful career.

The 150-foot steel-hulled ship was built during the First World War as a "Q" ship, or mystery ship.

Commissioned as HMCS Finlay at Midlandburgh, England, in 1915 she carried hidden armament and was used under the guise of an innocent merchant ship to attract submarines.

She was built with a long ram stem, and had a special egg-shaped rudder, which made her very manoeuvrable, ahead or astern. She was fast, making 14 knots ahead and 12 astern.

A former skipper, Capt. Don Peck, said: "There never was such a ship for manoeuvrability. You could drive tactics with her."

About 1923, she was bought by Hopkins Brothers of Hopkins Landing for the west Howe Sound mail contract. She was renamed Hopkins Brothers, but on the way out from England had boiler trouble in the Arctic, which delayed her for many months.

Her owners lost their mail contract as a result, and after her arrival on this coast, she towed logs for several years under Gordon Hopkins. She was bought by the Canadian National Railways and has been towing barges between Port Mann on the Fraser River

Town Crier Plagued By Own 'Editorials'

John Butts might have walked the pages of Charles Dickens instead of the streets of Victoria a century ago. He was the town crier, duly elected and even re-elected. And it is in April, 1862, shortly after his re-election, that we pick up his saga in the columns of The Daily British Colonist.

1862—Birth of a City By J. T. Jones

"On Saturday afternoon, while engaged in 'crying' for some entertainment or auction, he took occasion to wind up each 'cry' with slanderous remarks against a gentleman of this city. These remarks were delivered at the top of his voice, and greatly to the edification of a crowd of idle men and boys.

Property Cried

"He had all the fun for himself, until the gentleman himself chanced along, when he very properly cried the blackguard severely."

The maligned gentleman, Capt. Simpson, appeared in court next day, charged with assault. He admitted thrashing Butts but pleaded provocation. His name, said his lawyer, had been coupled with Butts' in the public streets, "accompanied by the ringing of bells."

Police Chief Smith testified that Butts was in the habit of abusing women and children and all classes of society. He had insulted the Governor on at least one occasion, and the police had heard numerous complaints about him.

Money's Worth

After hearing all the witnesses, Magistrate A. F. Pemberton said he didn't much regret that Butts had been given a hiding, but at the same time he had to impose a penalty for it.

Capt. Simpson, said the Colonist, "plunked down the 40-shilling fine with the air of a man who had got his money's worth."

Butts was in the news again. He was fined £1 for assaulting an Indian, after offering the excuse that he pushed the Indian away to keep from being touched, for fear of smallpox.

Indian Trailer

Butts at the time was suffering from a hoarse throat that kept him from "crying," but he didn't let that interfere with business. He hired an Indian to trail around after him carrying a large placard advertising whatever was to be advertised.

"His habits," said the Colonist of Butts, "require a kind of moral tinkering from the magisterial hands of Mr. Pemberton, at least once a month."

For six weeks John Butts behaved himself, but then he found himself back in court for applying "the most offensive and indecent epithets to a citizen passing the corner of Government and Yates Streets."

John's tears splashed on the courtroom floor, the Colonist reported, and he said he was truly sorry for what he'd done. "I intend for the future to act in a manner which will win me the respect of the community," he promised.

When the police said he had shown signs of a great reformation, the magistrate let him off, and he left with smile of joy, and great tears still glistening on his cheeks.

Forgiving Sort

A month later John was in jail, unable to post security for his good behavior after abusing a man named Carswell. Mr. Carswell, a forgiving sort, asked the court to let John go free.

The magistrate observed that "as John was not quite so great a nuisance as formerly, and as the police felt glad to get rid of him at any price," the application would be granted.

Apparently this time John had really learned to hold his tongue. At least it's the last we see of him in trouble.

Indian Advisory Group Meets in Williams Lake

Fishermen Hail Big Halibut Haul

PRINCE RUPERT (CP) — Fair weather and an abundance of fish are paying off for Canadian and American halibut fishermen in area three of the Bering Sea.

Norman Christenson, fisheries committee chairman of the chamber of commerce, said yesterday 19 American boats had caught a total of 1,220,000 pound of halibut so far. Five Canadian boats in the area had landed a total of 532,000 pounds.

The B.C. Indian Advisory Committee will meet in Williams Lake next week as part of a continuing program to integrate native Indians into the social and economic life of the province. Provincial Secretary Wesley Black announced yesterday.

The committee last met a year ago. Invitations to meet Mr. Black and the committee have been sent to neighboring Indian chiefs and presidents of the Homemakers' Clubs as well as federal and provincial government officials, law enforcement agencies, members of service clubs and private organizations. The meetings will be held Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Board to Decide Tuesday On Survey of Library

Victoria Public Library board is considering ordering a complete survey of the library's services; librarian John Lort said yesterday.

Port Renfrew Church Speaker

D. H. Nelson of Esquimalt will be speaker Sunday at 11 a.m. at Port Renfrew United Church service in the community hall. He will be assisted by members of Esquimalt United Church collegiate bible class. Soloist will be Miss Kathy Hatcher.

Mont Blanc on the French-Italian border, reaching 15,771 feet, is Europe's tallest mountain west of the Caucasus.

A decision on whether or not to have the survey conducted will be made at a meeting of the board Tuesday. If the survey is conducted, it will be partly as a result of complaints by Parent-Teacher Association groups that present library services are inadequate. Miss Rose Vainstein, a member of the faculty of the school of librarianship at the University of British Columbia has offered her services for the study.

He's Hunting for Job In New Limousine

WALTER ULBRICHT
... paralyzed?

DUNOON, Scotland—Laborer Thomas Gow always knew what he was going to do if he won a major prize on the football pools. He would drive to work in a chauffeur-driven limousine and throw up his job.

After winning $6,810 by picking eight soccer matches that ended in a tie, 47-year-old Gow did just that.

The limousine, with as many extras as the dealer could put in, cost $2,960. He hired a chauffeur for the day and was driven to work where he told the boss, "I quit."

He bought two television sets, new clothes for all the family and stood his fellow laborers drinks all round.

"Okay," said Gow Wednesday, "I had a ball. I've only got about $2,000 left, but who cares?"

He is hunting for a new job in his limousine.

WASHINGTON—The Shah of Iran arrived here on a state visit in hopes of convincing President Kennedy of the need for stepping up U.S. military aid to his strategically located nation.

The Kennedys held a glittering White House state dinner for the royal visitors. A red-carpeted stage in the East Room was enlarged to permit a performance of "Ballets U.S.A." by Jerome Robbins.

STOCKHOLM—East German Communist boss Walter Ulbricht, 68, has suffered a stroke and now is being treated in Czechoslovakia, Stockholm newspapers report. They say he is in "serious" condition and is suffering from paralysis.

Russia Receives New Test Warning

GENEVA (UPI)—The United States told the Soviet Union anew yesterday that it must go ahead with nuclear tests in the atmosphere late this month unless the Kremlin agrees to inspection safeguards against clandestine testing.

Chief American negotiator Arthur Dean informed the 17-nation disarmament conference the United States will not submit its own security and that of the free world to a "paper pledge" that the Soviet never will test nuclear weapons again.

But there was no indication the new warning had any effect on the rigid Soviet position on a test ban. In Moscow, the news agency Tass described Tuesday's joint Anglo-American plea as a smokescreen to place the blame on the Soviet for a new round of tests. Tass termed this and other previous warnings by the West as "manoeuvres" which do not obscure "the obvious fact that the NATO leaders are bent on speeding up the nuclear arms race."

Seed Pioneer Still Active

By KLAUS MUEHNER

DUNCAN—Millions of seeds have gone through his hands in almost half a century of sweet pea seed farming and even now, at 84, Ralph Woodhead Crosland longs for the sun to prepare the soil for another season.

Mr. Crosland's eyesight has weakened but his mind is sharp and he is still in love with the seed farm he founded with his brother Samuel in 1918 at Cedar Creek near Duncan.

Memories of the stately home of his father, a woolen manufacturer in Yorkshire, continued to come to Duncan to end of the Cowichan Valley awakening under busy pioneer hands are his companions.

Mr. Crosland is the last of a line after his brother's death in 1945 and the once large farm of 30 acres of seed land has shrunk to three acres of cultivated soil.

For several decades sweet pea seeds were shipped to 12 large seed firms and at times a dozen local people grew seeds for the Crosland brothers so the Cedar Creek farm could fulfill its many contracts.

BIG OPERATION

What began shortly after the First World War on a small scale grew into a big operation and renowned seedmen from the Old Country as well as this continent came to Duncan to study the brothers' methods.

Mr. Crosland recalls hundreds of people arriving in special trains to admire the colorful harvest lined in endless rows decorated with many tubs of flowers to celebrate the annual rose festival in Oregon, says Mr. Crosland.

The soil was at one time prepared by hand and enriched by the manure of Yorkshire swine also bred by the brothers.

The Duncan-grown sweet peas were to be found almost everywhere, in the Empress Hotel and department stores in Victoria, in the public gardens of Halifax, on many experimental farms and in large shopping centres in Vancouver. The present head gardener of Beacon Hill Park still comes every year to visit.

Before the Second World War, Duncan streets were

Handicapped in Alberni Start Third Business

By MARGARET TREBETT

PORT ALBERNI—Third handicapped person to start a new business in this area since the Help the Handicapped Association was formed last fall is Mrs. H. R. (Kathleen) Pickles.

Kay's Telephone Answering Service will be operated in the home of the 57-year-old widow, partially disabled since childhood by polio.

With her lifelong disability aggravated by business following fracture of a hip in an accident three years ago, Mrs. Pickles seldom goes far from her house at 305 Fifth Avenue North. Her business will be carried on from a telephone desk in a corner of her living room.

She hopes small local firms will use her services to have and space her.

Active in Community

She came to Port Alberni in 1959 to marry Harry Pickles, whom she had known in Dewdney and hadn't seen for 22 years. Until Mr. Pickles' sudden death in 1958, the couple was active in community affairs. Mrs. Pickles has continued her membership in the Order of the Royal Purple for which she was secretary for five years.

James Speedie, special placement officer with the National Employment Service, says: "We are hoping it will prove successful. It should be of special value to small businesses not yet in a position to have full-time office help."

Mr. Speedie, who was instrumental in starting the Help the Handicapped organization, says the two original enterprises are doing well.

Kleanor Bowerman, sponsored by A. V. Citizenship Council, is giving part-time employment to other handicapped girls in her Hand-in-Hand Enterprises in All Saints Church Hall, Jim Bray, who opened a kiosk in West Coast General Hospital early this year, has a growing business, initiated under sponsorship of the Legion.

Plans are to set up two more handicapped persons in business. Capital is provided by a sponsoring group which is re-imburbed when the business is self-supporting.

Reptile Zoo On Move

DUNCAN—The reptile zoo at Glenora, only one of its kind in Canada, will move to a new location opposite the Duncan golf course south of here today.

The 24 by 24 foot reptile house, built by owner Jim Oyen three years ago, will be hoisted on a large truck of the local moving firm W. O. Brown Ltd. and 90 minutes later will be lowered on its new foundations four miles away.

All the animals will stay in their cages but the snakes will be put in sacks as a safety measure. The others will make the short trip in a truck or Mr. Oyen's car.

He and his wife, who began to open at the new location in time for the Easter holidays, say moving the reptile house will cost $1,500.

Mr. Oyen bought the five-acre property recently from Hugh Ellison and will operate a concession stand. He and his wife and family came to Canada from Ireland eight years ago.

B.C. Boats Eye Tuna For Ottawa

Victoria M.P. A. deB. McPhillips announced in Ottawa yesterday on behalf of Fisheries Minister Maclean that a far-sighted program in relation to tuna fishing on the Pacific coast is about to be undertaken.

Long-range fishing for tuna by B.C. vessels will become a reality this year when four large purse seiners head for this fishery far west and south of B.C. waters.

Agreements have been signed between the federal department of fisheries and the owners of four vessels.

The agreements were entered into as part of a program to develop an active Canadian tuna fishing industry and it is hoped the results will benefit the whole Canadian Pacific fishing fleet.

Charge of McCarthyism Rejected Chamber Official Defends Campaign

PORT ALBERNI—There is no McCarthyism in the Canadian Chamber of Commerce campaign "Operation Freedom," James C. Donald, western representative of the national organization, told a luncheon meeting Tuesday when Chamber of Commerce Week was officially opened here.

Mr. Donald was replying to a statement attributed to Claude Jodoin, president of the Canadian Labor Congress.

"We will lose everything if we do not stand up for what we believe," said Mr. Donald, as he outlined the program to be carried on in support of private enterprise. He declared the competitive system is the only one under which the rights of individuals can be realized.

Mr. Donald said the program to publicize the chamber's economic policies is being carried on to combat the country's unemployment, a slowdown in economic growth, an increasing threat of political control and a lack of interest among Canadians in economic freedom.

He said there are no special virtues to be found in state-owned business where the government is the only boss.

"In the competitive system all of us have the opportunity to have direct ownership in Canadian companies where the interest is greater than that of citizens generally in government-owned business."

Security means a different thing to different people, he pointed out. "To some it means 'the world owes me a living'; to others, opportunity."

He said everyone likes to measure the health of a work for a prosperous community. The company's profits are the truest security in your best security."

We've started a 16-hour day

Now we're working 2 shifts to meet the demand for new Ramblers

Optimistic as we were, we were wrong! We expected a 50% increase in Rambler sales for 1962. Instead, we are faced with a whopping 75% increase at last report. This has meant that in some cases our customers have had to wait an extra week or so for their new Rambler. We apologize for the delay, but are proud of our success. We are also happy to announce that effective immediately, a second shift will be speeding delivery of '62 Ramblers.

What is the reason for our success? We believe it's because we are building a car Canadians want. Because we are offering the best car value in Canada. That value is a combination of Rambler pioneered features and new exclusives, all for less than any of the low-price three!

Single Unit construction, pioneered by Rambler, eliminates squeaks and rattles, adds years of life to the car. Deep Dip rustproofing, developed specially for Canadian conditions, makes Rambler the world's most completely rustproofed car. This year we have added self-adjusting Double-Safety brakes and a coolant and battery, so good they are guaranteed for two years.

These are only a few of the reasons we have been selling so many Ramblers. Drop in on your Dealer soon. See for yourself why Rambler is Canada's best all round car value.

One Commission

'Knock on Doors' Campaign Urged For Parks, Play

Community Welfare Council of Greater Victoria will campaign for adoption of its proposal to have the four local municipalities set up a combined parks and recreation commission.

The combined commission was the major recommendation of a lengthy report compiled by a recreation survey committee headed by Prof. F. L. Martens. The report was endorsed by the community welfare council's annual meeting last night.

BECOME GROUP

Glen Hamilton, executive director of Silver Threads Service, urged the welfare council to "become a social action group" to win support for the proposal.

He added: "This will be something like the proposal to establish a juvenile court... adopted only when we get out."

Two Threatened

Police Hunt Knifeman

Saanich police last night were combing the Burnside area for a man who threatened two people with a drawn knife.

May Bylaw Likely For Saanich Schools

Ratepayers in the Saanich peninsula will go to the polls within a few weeks to vote on a $306,000 school building bylaw.

Reginald Sinkinson, chairman of the Saanich school board, said last night final decision on the form of the bylaw and voting date will be made by trustees Monday.

MAY VOTE

It is expected the vote will be held sometime in May.

The building program as presented last night to a meeting of representatives of local councils and ratepayers' groups includes:

• Purchase of a four-acre site adjacent to Keating elementary school and building of a new four-room school.

The existing school will be abandoned if the department of education gives its consent to the move. Three of the four new classrooms are covered by allocations in previous referendums.

• Two new classrooms to be constructed at ground level under the existing classroom wing of Royal Oak Elementary School where elementary pupils are now occupying two rooms in the adjacent junior secondary school.

• New three-room schools for the Royal Oak Avenue, Lochside Road and West Saanich-Dunsmuir Road areas.

Fate of the old Oak Bay Bathhouse on Beach Drive will be decided April 17 when Oak Bay ratepayers vote on whether ancient landmark will be replaced by a modern $124,000 marina and marine restaurant built by private investors. (Colonist photo.)

Reeve Insists:

Merger Issue Alive

Amalgamation—if only between Victoria and Saanich—is still a live issue, Reeve Stanley Murphy said last night.

"I haven't abandoned the possibility of amalgamation between the two," he said. "It will be my business to find out if my council has any further interest in the problem."

Reeve Murphy said it is possible amalgamation will be discussed at Monday night's meeting of Saanich council.

IDEA REJECTED

A discussion on amalgamation recently ended with Saanich council rejecting a suggestion that the provincial government be asked to order a survey of the Greater Victoria area under a section of the Municipal Act providing for metropolitan government.

Later, some of the councillors who rejected the formal study proposal said they would not be opposed to an informal study.

FROM SAANICH

"The city's willingness to study amalgamation has been made quite clear," he said. "Any further indication of willingness will naturally have to come from Saanich."

But Mayor R. B. Wilson, commenting on Reeve Murphy's statements, made it plain the city is not interested in an informal study.

Local Parks Too Small

Play Programs Here Far Behind Big Cities

Recreation facilities in Greater Victoria are behind most similar services in other major Canadian cities.

The Community Welfare Council here recently sent a questionnaire to Halifax, London, Hamilton, Edmonton, Windsor, Ottawa and Calgary. It found out:

• Five cities have a recreation commission or its equivalent. Ottawa has an active recreation department headed by a commissioner responsible to city council. Locally, Oak Bay, only municipality with a recreation commission, has no full-time staff.

• All seven cities operate a summer playgrounds program from eight to 12 weeks. Saanich playgrounds function eight weeks, Victoria and Oak Bay five weeks. Esquimalt has no program.

• All seven cities operate some form of year-round public recreation program and all but Halifax and Calgary operate community centres. In Greater Victoria the only winter programs are Memorial Arena and Esquimalt Municipal Sports Centre with some club activity sponsored by Oak Bay recreation commission.

• All the cities except Calgary have publicly-sponsored recreation programs and facilities for senior citizens.

Here, where those over 60 are most numerous, Oak Bay has the only municipally-sponsored club for senior citizens.

All seven cities have outside swimming pools ranging from one in Halifax to seven in Windsor. Greater Victoria has none. These cities except Halifax also have more indoor pools open to the public.

A comparison with accepted planning standards showed Greater Victoria "at first glance" to be reasonably supplied with playgrounds and playing fields. The report added:

• "The main problem, however, is that existing parks are too small to provide the necessary facilities."

To illustrate, some 1,800 league games are played in seven leading sports using park fields and 80 per cent of these games are played in Victoria. And this includes public facilities only.

Parents and public apathy are among the most pressing problems reported by the Community Welfare Council of Greater Victoria in its survey of recreation needs.

The report said Scouts, Guides, boys and girls softball and playground groups "in particular feel they could be getting more support from parents."

The report added: "If meagre attendance at some of their meetings called especially for parents is anything to go by, their criticism is certainly not unwarranted."

The public also has a duty to help, it added.

"The time is ripe for the establishment of some authority to move in this matter," the report said.

"Far and away the most crying need" disclosed by the survey is for additional space and facilities. Second "but some considerable way behind" was the plea for more and better trained leaders.

Distress Signal Idea Urged on B.C. Boats

By JACK FRY

Fishboat and pleasure craft operators in B.C. coastal waters will be asked to carry a special home-made distress signal to warn aircraft of trouble, a department of transport official told the Colonist last night.

Capt. J. C. Barbour of Vancouver, search and rescue co-ordinator for B.C. area, outlined the plan in an exclusive telephone interview.

REPORTS ASKED

An orange fluorescent cloth placed on a hatch or cabin top can be seen from as high as 1,500 feet and would help rescue aircraft pick out the boat in trouble below, he said.

All commercial aircraft will be instructed to make sighting reports to the rescue co-ordination centre in Vancouver, and all boat operators in this area will be asked to carry the signals on board.

Capt. Barbour, 53, who formerly served in the Royal Canadian Navy, hit upon the signal idea recently while watching an aircraft land some distance away.

"All I could see was the tail, which was painted a fluorescent, orange-red color. The plane itself wasn't visible," he said.

Other night are highly critical of the boorish attitude of some of the social set who only seem to go to these affairs because it is the proper thing to do! ... Premier Bennett is planning few speaking engagements in B.C. during the coming federal election—but may make a "crusade" in the East.

THE OTHER SIDE: When "Miss Ceylan Tea"—Toronto University student Nirmala Dassanayake—was here a few weeks ago she reported she had been forced to use a freight elevator in Vancouver's Georgia Hotel.

The charges inferred color prejudice.

Now Georgia Hotel manager E. W. Hudson has written to say these charges are "completely and ridiculously false."

During the past three months the hotel has been installing automatic elevators and only one has been in use. At busy times throughout the day guests also use the freight elevator and this is what happened when Miss Dassanayake and her companion Dr. Charlotte Weerakere arrived.

Writes Mr. Hudson: "There are probably no colored entertainers or artists and their troupes who have not stopped at the Georgia at some time or other at our invitation. Last month Marian Anderson was here. Lena Horne, Billy Daniels and countless others, also the colored players who come up for try-outs with the B.C. Lions, have also stayed here. Need I say more?"

HELPS GIVEN: In reply to the piece here yesterday seeking information about a mystery gold 1879 trading dollar, Allan Kleinman reports the coin was put out by a city jeweler.

Seems that in the early days the coinage used here was British, U.S. and Mexican and there was a tremendous shortage of change. Businessmen never carried change in their pockets but put it all in the till so their trade could continue.

Mr. Kleinman doesn't know who the jeweler was, but said the coins were issued to help solve the situation and were valued at $1 at that time.

Your Problems

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: You are supposed to be a big problem solver. I am 11 years old and I have a big problem for you to solve. I am too kind-hearted.

If the kid next to me wants to borrow an eraser I pay him. If the girl across from me wants to borrow some notebook paper I say yes. These people know good and well that they need certain supplies to do their school work. Yet they are always running out of stuff and borrowing from me. I guess you might say my problem is I can't say no. Please help me. —JOHN.

Dear John: No is a perfectly respectable word — and you should learn right now, how to use it.

Everybody runs out of something at one time or another. It is always nice to help a friend who is in a spot. There is such a thing as being a shooke, however. If the same person tries to borrow from you three days in a row I think you should tell him "I have to buy my supplies and it's time you bought yours."

Dear Ann: My problem isn't original. There must be thousands in the same boat. What's the solution?

I arise at 5 a.m., fix lunches and breakfast for my husband and myself. He gets up at 5.15. At 7 a.m. I wake the two children, dress them, feed them and take them upstairs to get the 7.50 bus. (My husband rides with a friend.) After work I rush home, pick up the children and start supper. My husband gets home an hour before I do but he has to bathe, shave and read the evening news. After dinner and dishes I do some cleaning, washing and ironing. My husband meanwhile is in his favorite chair watching TV and drinking beer. At 8 I stop whatever I'm doing and get the children bathed and ready for bed.

I then return to my cleaning and ironing. By this time my husband has had several catnaps. By 11.30 I'm ready to collapse, as I bathe and prepare for the next day. At midnight when I finally fall into bed, my husband gets romantic. I can't afford to quit my job. What do you suggest? —TIED.

Dear Tied: I'm surprised you aren't dead. How long do you think you can keep on with a 19-hour day?

Your husband should help you with the dinner dishes and the cleaning. He can also give you a hand by bathing the children and putting them into snook, however. If the same person tries to borrow from you three days in a row I think you should tell him "I have to buy my supplies and it's time you bought yours."

With his help you should be in bed by 10. And since he will have been pitching in, too, he won't be quite so zippy every night.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm 20 years old and I work as a punch-press operator. I make very good money for a girl my age.

This fellow I've been going with since September is the best-looking guy who ever hit town. He's built like Rock Hudson and has a voice like Rock, too. Unfortunately he has had trouble hanging on to a job. I've kept up the payments on his car and gave him money for room rent a few times. He is very appreciative. Please don't get the idea that he's a sponger because he isn't. He's just had some lousy breaks.

When he's loaded he talks about marriage, but when he's sober he avoids the subject. I'd give my eyeteeth to marry this guy. How can I do it? —SOFT-HEARTED.

Dear Soft-Hearted: He doesn't want your eye-teeth, honey, he only wants your financial help and the pleasure of your company.

My advice is to drop him, unless you want to continue to pour your hard-earned dough down a bottomless well.

To learn how to keep your boy friend in line without losing him, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Necking and Petting—And How Far To Go," enclosing with your request 20c in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

A palate-pampering concoction of left-overs that is elegant enough for a formal party.

'Jackie Out—Grace In by Summer'

LONDON (UPI)—The fashion editor of the London Daily Express predicted today that the "Jackie Kennedy look" will be out of fashion by summer, and the "Grace Kelly look" in.

This will happen "on the very first warm day," wrote fashion editor Jill Butterfield. "I'm sure," she said, "because the Kelly look is the essence of summer."

"Kelly girls," Miss Butterfield went on, "have hair that looks as if it actually grows on the head, instead of being whipped up there with an egg beater. . . .

"The Kelly look is the look of tomorrow, while the white-smiling, hard-working American first lady climbed on to a fashion bandwagon which had been turning for quite a while before her grin and gaiety gave the pillbox hat, bouffant hairstyle, campus-cute suit, and hot, bright colors a new fillip."

Miss Butterfield summed up the "Kelly look" as mild and milky in color, featuring simple suits, skirts and classical drapes that "are easier to spend the summer in than the straight little tight dress which is the Kennedy uniform."

This is the face of the souvenir $100 bill being produced for Victoria Centennial Society, featuring Mayor R. B. Wilson's portrait.

May Be Worth It!

$100 Bills for $1

Victoria Centennial Society is producing a "century" for a century.

The "century" is a souvenir $100 bill to mark the city's 100th birthday. And it will be worth $100 to some lucky buyers, centennial director Gerry Fowler said yesterday.

Produced in color with Mayor R. B. Wilson's portrait on it, the bill is about the same size as the old Canadian currency.

It will cost $1 to buy, but each bill will be numbered and lucky numbers chosen at random will win a genuine $100 bill for the holders.

Other souvenirs being arranged by the centennial society include black string ties and derby hats for men, straw bonnets for women and centennial badges for everyone. And a 100-page historical program will also be produced. Souvenirs will be sold through the centennial headquarters at Douglas and Yates, and through a number of Victoria stores.

Author Wins Appeal Over House Sale Fee

British Columbia Appeal Court ruled yesterday that author Raymond M. Patterson and Mrs. Marigold Patterson do not have to pay $2,900 in real estate commission for the sale of their property.

SOLD FOR $58,000

Mr. and Mrs. Patterson had appealed against a Supreme Court judgment by Mr. Justice J. O. Sullivan last November, ordering them to pay the commission to V. and S. Realty Co. for sale of their Shool Bay property to Mr. and Mrs. George M. Ross for $58,000.

ATTENTION DRAWN

Mr. Justice C. H. O'Halloran, Mr. Justice H. L. Bird and Mr. Justice H. W. Davey of Appeal Court allowed the Pattersons' appeal.

Mr. Justice Davey drew attention to evidence in the lower court that showed real estate agent J. C. Isherwood working to get the Pattersons to reduce their asking price.

BREACH SEEN

At one point in the Supreme Court trial, Isherwood was asked: "You were trying to secure an attractive price as possible for Mr. Ross, weren't you?"

Husband Meets Six Wives

The six wives of Henry VIII reached Vancouver by jet plane from England yesterday, were met by their husband, and opened "court" for three days at the Hotel Vancouver.

Saturday all will come to Victoria by motorcade and after appearing at the Empress Hotel will assume their permanent places — as additions to the Royal London Wax Museum here.

No Bid by CPA For Extra Route

OTTAWA (UPI)—There is no application from Canadian Pacific Airlines before the federal cabinet for permission to operate an additional transcontinental service, Prime Minister Diefenbaker said yesterday.

He made the statement in the Commons when questioned by Lionel Chevrier (Laurier) on reports that CPA would soon be granted an additional air route.

Arctic Voice Saved Electronic Romance

By TED FULFORD

The electronic courtship of a DEW-Line Lethario, who whispered sweet nothings into the ear of a Victoria nurse across 2,500 miles of muskeg, tundra and ocean, was disclosed here yesterday.

The whole thing started, once upon a time, when Patricia Hanspeler went on a casual date with Fred Galbraith here while the latter was on leave from his DEW-Line post.

FRED FELL

Added Fred returned to the land of the ice worms without even bothering to get Pat's address or telephone number but, aided by the solitude and the long nights, his imagination began churning and nature's chemistry got in a few licks for luck.

Fred fell in love. Since he knew neither the name or the address of his beloved back in Victoria, Fred took his problem to a radio ham.

PARRETT PLUCKED

Clearly an emergency. Dials twiddled, generators hummed and an urgent appeal howled away into the northern night. Victoria radio amateur Roy Parrett, who lives at 740 Cowper, plucked the message out of the air and the search for Patricia was on.

Finding the young nurse at her work in St. Joseph's Hospital was easy, but re-establishing contact with the mournful Fred was something else again.

THREE TUNED

Three operators scattered across the north were required to tune their stations in unison, government regulations permitting only one-way traffic on radio-telephone hookups were studiously—and legally—circumvented, and the lovers' voices came together in the night.

"The romance," recalled a benign Mr. Parrett, "became warmer and warmer."

Finally, the doleful Dew-Line proposed and Patricia accepted.

It was while the lovers were trying to decide where the wed-

Migawd! They Married

Finally, Patricia relented a little and, one night when radio contact was almost perfect, nature's chemistry started to work again.

RADIO ROAR

Even so, Fred's appeals fell on a less than sympathetic ear and it seemed, for a moment, as if all was lost.

"Migawd!" roared an anonymous voice from the never-never land of the radio waves, "Tell her you love her!"

"Yes," squeaked Fred from the loudspeaker, "let's get married!"

And they did. Pat and Fred are living in Nova Scotia.

Miffed Miss Canada Promised New Deal

Fast organization work in Toronto yesterday resulted in a new company taking over the Miss Canada pageant and a decision by Victoria's Nina Holden to keep her title—for the time being, at least.

Miss Holden, who said she was "fed up" with lack of organization among the pageant's promoters and had threatened to resign unless they lived up to certain alleged promises, found herself in a precarious position when the organization collapsed.

Dysentery Spreading

BERLIN (AP)—A dysentery epidemic in Communist East Germany shows no sign of slowing down. Authorities have reported 5,114 new cases this week, bringing the official total to more than 37,250. The East Germans announced one new death, raising the official total to four.

Get Out Behind NDP Union Ranks Urged

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Canadian Labor Congress, in pledging its support to the New Democratic Party Wednesday, urged every individual trade unionist to take an active part in supporting the NDP in the coming federal election.

ENCOURAGE SUPPORT

Delegates attending the constitutional convention of the CLC spent an hour exhorting each other to work hard toward election of the NDP to Ottawa. Then they approved a resolution, submitted by the political education committee, urging chairman Eamon Park of Toronto. It urges "that in the federal election immediately before us we encourage our affiliates and their local unions and individual trade unionists to give their fullest possible support to the NDP candidates."

EXPECT 200,000

Mr. Park, also national treasurer of the NDP, told the delegates that 175,000 trade unionists already have affiliated with the NDP, set up at a founding convention in Ottawa eight months ago. By the end of this year, he said, more than 200,000 trade unionists are expected to be NDP affiliates.

week wages while she relaxes for two months, and will then invite her to look over the program they have planned for her.

"I just know it's going to go," she said, "they've all been so nice."

Back in Victoria, meanwhile, things weren't quite so nice. Red-faced Junior Chamber of Commerce officials, whose club supplies local talent for the pageant, promised to look the new company over with more than usual care.

"We had no idea that things had come to such a pass with the old organization," said Jaycee president Al Buchanan, though he admitted that the club had helped persuade the group to pay Miss Holden some back salary last Christmas.

Mr. Buchanan staunchly defended the pageants as a "good thing for Canada—and a good thing for the girls, too." He added, however, that affiliate clubs in the east would investigate Markey-Brooks carefully before another girl is picked locally.

Miss Holden's plans for the future appear to climax this Saturday and were stated thus as she rang off:

"I'll be so... so nice to be home! Victoria, here I come!"

Dad Told 'My Mom' Please Don't Die

KAMLOOPS (CP)—Dabbling his eyes with a handkerchief, 15-year-old Bobby Haywood testified Wednesday at the non-capital murder trial of his father, 38-year-old John Haywood, charged with the gunshot death of his wife. Mrs. Margaret Haywood, 36, died in hospital Dec. 1 from a gunshot wound.

Young Bobby told the court he was awakened by a gun shot. Moments later he saw "my mom lying on the floor and my dad bent over her."

He said he heard his father say: "Who loaded the gun?" and "Please don't die."

His father had called an ambulance and accompanied his mother to hospital.

Mr. Justice A. E. Lord is presiding over the assize court trial.

Hepatitis Wave Declines

An outbreak of infectious hepatitis which swept through the province earlier in the year appears to have passed its peak, city medical health officials said yesterday.

Dr. J. L. M. Whitbread, senior medical health officer for the metropolitan board of health, said last night the number of new cases coming to his attention had declined in recent weeks.

Bureau Folds

Victoria's new "Better Business Bureau" apparently hasn't managed to get very far. Announced late in February, the bureau rented offices in a downtown building and started some organizational work.

Yesterday the Victoria Credit Bureau reported that the office has closed, and the spokesman for the company has left.

Health Plan Cleared Despite Talks Failure

REGINA (CP)—Discussions between the Saskatchewan College of Physicians and Surgeons and the provincial cabinet broke off Wednesday with both sides announcing no agreement had been reached on solving their differences over the provincial medical care plan.

SPECIAL DEBATE

Premier Woodrow Lloyd told the legislature after the meetings that the government plan will go into effect July 1 with or without doctor co-operation.

He said the House could go into emergency debate on the plan Thursday. The debate would last only one day and probably not postpone prorogation of the session this week.

Mr. Lloyd said the cabinet had rejected an alternative plan for medical care insurance submitted by the college, which represents the province's 900 doctors.

Mr. Lloyd said the government believes the college's unwillingness to accept the plan does not stand in the way of individual members of the profession accepting payment for services through the Medical Care Insurance Commission appointed in January to administer the plan.

College president Dr. H. D. Dalgleish of Saskatoon said in an interview doctors will continue to deal directly with patients.

This would mean that when the plan goes into operation, the doctor would bill the patient, receive payment from the patient and the patient could obtain reimbursement, according to a set scale, from the medical care commission.

Startup Successful

A-Furnace Activated At New Power Station

ROLPHTON, Ont. (CP)—The atomic furnace in Canada's first nuclear power station went into operation here early yesterday, culminating seven years of research and development by Canadian scientists and engineers.

The successful startup of the nuclear reactor does not mean, however, that the $33,000,000 experimental station is producing electricity. The startup represents one of the final stages in the station which is expected to produce its first electricity within the next few months. The station, known as Nuclear Power Demonstration, is about one-half mile from Rolphoton on the Ontario side of the Ottawa River. The location is about 150 miles northwest of Ottawa and some 12 miles upstream from the Crown-owned Chalk River research centre of Atomic Energy of Canada Limited.

The plant, only one of its kind in the world, was built as a co-operative project by Atomic Energy of Canada, Ontario Hydro and the Canadian General Electric Company Limited.

DR. H. E. TAYLOR
... U.S. spends more

Cancer Researchers 'Enticed Over Border'

More money is required for cancer research if Canada expects to keep trained scientists within its boundaries.

Dr. H. E. Taylor, head of the University of British Columbia pathology department, said huge funds provided in the United States for research were enticing Canadian medical men south of the border.

He pointed out that Canada is spending 70 cents per unit on research through government grants, while the U.S. is putting out $4.50 for similar units.

An extra $2,000,000 a year for the next five years would be needed "to keep the ball rolling," he said.

He told 50 Conquer Cancer Campaign officials at a luncheon meeting yesterday there was no point in training young scientists and research men in Canada unless jobs could be provided for them.

Donations to the Victoria campaign should be sent to campaign headquarters at 530 Broughton. Target for this year's campaign is $50,000.

Civic officials from all over North America plan to visit Seattle this summer to observe the monorail in action.

Monorail Solves Traffic Problem

By ALEC MERRIMAN

SEATTLE—We found the solution of skimming above Seattle streets on the Alweg monorail somewhere between that of flying in an aircraft over a big city and that of taking off from a London station in a British electric train.

As a matter of fact, there was little time for sensation. We took off from beneath the Space Needle symbol of the Seattle world's fair, and one-and-a-half minutes and one-and-two-tenths miles later we were at the downtown Seattle Westlake Mall terminus of the monorail.

There is no doubt in our minds that the monorail is the best way to get to and from the Century 21 Exposition, especially after we had had two or three wild taxi rides through the middle of Seattle traffic to the fairgrounds.

There is no traffic problem on the monorail. You glide out of the station on one of two German-built electric trains, which scoot along on rubber tires, straddling concrete rails set 25 feet above the street. There will be two trains—one coming and one going—but only one was in operation when we visited the fair.

The trains average 60 miles an hour and glide easily to starts and stops. From the spacious windows Seattle's busy traffic—pedestrians and vehicles—can be seen jockeying about below.

Each four-car train seats 124 persons, but another 300

or so standees may crowd in. Fare is 50 cents, 35 cents for children, or 75 cents and 50 cents for round trips.

The monorail is billed as the "transportation system of tomorrow" and is particularly interesting to British Columbians who amid grand publicity were promised a far northern B.C. monorail railway by the Wenner-Gren inventors, Rainier baseball park.

but the proposals fizzled out. The Alweg company financed the $4,000,000 monorail for the fair, but it is likely the city of Seattle will take over the system after the fair ends. Already the city is making tentative plans to build another monorail to the University of Washington area, and another to Seattle's

'Elmer' Safety Drive Put Off Until Fall

The "Elmer the Elephant" safety Club, sponsors of the school safety campaign, originally scheduled to go into effect in late March, has been postponed until next fall. A spokesman for the Kiwanis Club, sponsors of the plan, said an agreement was reached between school board officials and the Kiwanis to hold off the campaign until the beginning of a new school year.

War Against Outcast Unions Declared by Labor Congress

VANCOUVER (CP) — Organized labor Wednesday declared war against outcast unions that are Communist or Communist-dominated.

By an overwhelming vote, more than 1,500 delegates at the policy conference of the Canadian Labor Congress rejected attempts to blacklist the United Steelworkers of America as a pirate union.

They approved an omnibus resolution that:

1. Maintained an "open-door policy" toward all unions outside CLC ranks that are prepared to accept the CLC constitution, principles and policies.
2. Commended the big 83,000-member Steelworkers union without specifically mentioning it, for its campaign to "liberate" workers in Sudbury and Port Colborne in Ontario and Thompson, Mass., from the left International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers (Ind).
3. Pledged CLC aid to workers belonging to outcast unions to help them get back in the free trade union movement.

The resolution was a watered-down version of nine other motions submitted by individual union locals—most of them condemning inter-union raids as a threat to labor unity.

FIRST STEP

The convention also made an historic first step toward a new method of dealing with jurisdictional disputes between rival unions. It endorsed a resolution instructing the congress executive council to make a "comprehensive study of the problem of jurisdiction disputes and their solution by arbitration and other methods."

NEW MACHINERY

The council was told to consider establishing new machinery to resolve quarrels between unions over their jurisdictions.

Convention approval of the two resolutions represented a defeat for red-dialed union locals that contend labor unity is threatened by attacks on unions outside the mainstream of labor, such as the Mine - Mill Union.

DESTRUCTION SEEN

Charles Shane, a Vancouver delegate, attacked the omnibus resolution as incitement to civil war in the labor movement.

"If allowed to continue," he warned, "it is going to destroy the trade union movement."

Larry Sefton, regional director of the Steel union for Ontario and Western Canada, charged that a few "Communist stooges" were taking orders from William Kashan, an officer of the Communist party of Canada, at the back of the hall.

FOUND OUT

"We have found them out and now we are going to clean house of them."

"We want the CLC to be bigger and stronger," said Louis Laberge of Montreal, a vice-president of the congress. "But we don't want the CLC to be bigger in order to do Khrushchev's job."

'Fleming Forgets No. 1 Problem'

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Canadian Labor Congress said Wednesday Finance Minister Fleming's budget speech of Tuesday night "is particularly disappointing because it fails to deal effectively with Canada's number one problem — unemployment."

'DOUBTFUL METHOD'

A statement issued by Donald Macdonald, secretary-treasurer, during the CLC's national convention here, said:

"The minister of finance is apparently depending on incentives to business to increase production and employment. This is a doubtful method. The solution to the problem of inadequate growth does not lie in tax concessions to private business."

The statement said the present relatively low rate of private investment does not result from lack of capital funds but from too much unused industrial capacity.

"We have proposed a planned, long-term, sustaining expansion of our social capital, of our public services, and of investment in the development of the most important capital of all—our human capital."

"Fulfilling these important needs would . . . constitute a big step forward in solving our unemployment problems."

After Findings

Paper Refuses Cigarette Ads

GRAVENHURST, Ont. (CP)—The weekly Muskoka News, in a front-page editorial today, says it will refuse to accept cigarette advertising in future.

The newspaper, which plans to become a daily early next month, is operated by Andrew D. MacLean, who describes himself as a "heavy smoker" until 10 years ago.

"I got tired of coughing until I was purple in the face," Mr. MacLean said.

The editorial states: "In view of the findings of the Royal College of Physicians and of many Canadian doctors, the Muskoka News will no longer accept cigarette advertising.

"It—as it is remotely possible—cigarettes are shown by reputable authorities to be harmless or the makers are able to remove or nullify their harmful effects, our decision will be reconsidered."

The Royal College of Physicians in Britain recently reported findings that cigarette smoking tends to cause lung cancer.

Arthritis Probers Get $200,000 in Awards

TORONTO (CP)—Grants and fellowships worth nearly $200,000 will be made today at the 13th annual meeting of the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society.

The society said awards will go to arthritis researchers in eight universities across Canada.

LET'S TALK

By Rudolf Flesch

When is a genius? That's one of the strange questions asked in a fascinating new book called The Shape of Time, by George Kubler (Yale).

Dr. Kubler is a professor of art history at Yale. He has a Kubler, Bernardino Luini (1460-1540) and Giulio Romano (1499-1546) were painting at unusual, highly original answers.

As to genius, Dr. Kubler little too late. (Luini was the comes up with a brand new definition. He says a genius is a person with talent who happens to live at the right time. Leonardo da Vinci and Raphael are universally recognized as geniuses; but, says art historians only.

As Historian Looks

The point is that Prof. Kubler looks at art history—and history in general—from the wide-angled perspective of the historian rather than the popular "great man" point of view.

It's handy to orient yourself in history by remembering the names of Shakespeare, Beethoven, Rembrandt, Napoleon and Einstein; but after all, these men didn't do their work single-handedly because they lived in certain places, at or perhaps heretics.

Artist-Leaders

Far from being simply greater or lesser geniuses, artists—like everyone else—have their appointed roles in history and spend their lives unconsciously fulfilling their destiny.

Among great versatile artist-leaders Kubler lists Leonardo, Michelangelo and — Thomas Jefferson; among "evangelists" Frank Lloyd Wright and Sir Joshua Reynolds; among "ruminative" Hokusai, Rembrandt and Van Gogh.

Burglars Gain Big Haul

Thirty cartons of cigarettes, a 303 rifle, $600-worth of clothes and three transistor radios worth $180 were among the loot from the burglary of Gibson's Shopping Centre, Sooke, about midnight Tuesday.

RCMP said the thieves entered by removing a panel from a rear door.

It was the second sizable burglary on Southern Vancouver Island this week. Early Monday morning, burglars cut open a safe and stole $2,500 in cash and bonds from West Coast Credit Union, 31 Erie Street, Victoria.

Goods taken in the Sooke burglary included shirts, sweaters, underwear, jackets, slacks and shoes.

Australia's most intensive search for oil, costing at least $13,500,000, is being conducted in Queensland in 1962.

Now That You Mention It...

Victoria Needs Name Changed Says Resident

Current hassle over the changing of street names paled into insignificance yesterday when a city resident suggested Victoria itself should have a change of name.

And, Mrs. A. Marshall, 1230 Styles Street, added: "Vancouver should have been the capital city instead of Victoria."

In a letter to city council, Mrs. Marshall complimented the city on the repainting of city hall, but complained that it should have been "done in the first place instead of dithering and dabbling at it and wasting the people's money on it."

LOT OF STUPIDS

"Now, as one who is thinking you are acting like a lot of stupid changing the names of streets," she went on, "why did you not change the name of this city?"

—It should never have been called Victoria in the first place. It should have been named after one of our early oldtimers, who did something for B.C. and city.

Priest Clears Driver in Court

Testimony of a priest cleared a man yesterday of a charge of driving while his faculties were impaired by alcohol.

Rev. John Knech, pastor of Ukrainian Catholic Church, Cook and Caledonia, took the witness stand to testify that Stefan Krancevic had drunk only two small glasses of wine in five hours, on the day that he was charged with impaired driving.

'Get New Bylaw Or New Reeve'

COQUITLAM (CP) — Reeve Jim Christmas told council to "get a new dog bylaw or get a new reeve" after council voted to defer final approval of stringent dog leash bylaw for the community. "I can't sit in my office all day arguing with women over dogs," said the reeve. "We've got to get some kind of control."

Magistrate William Ostler dismissed the charge. Earlier, Dr. E. L. McNiven and police witnesses had testified that in their opinion Krancevic's faculties were impaired by alcohol.

Krancevic, driving Father Knech home after the priest had visited the Krancevic house, 478 Cicella, for dinner, was in collision with a car driven by Mrs. Dora LeQuense at the corner of Pandora and Quadra.

Dr. McNiven, who examined Krancevic at the city police charge office, said the accused had a flushed face and blood-shot eyes, and that he seemed mentally confused.

FAULTY CO-ORDINATION

The doctor said tests showed faulty physical co-ordination. He said he did not believe that Krancevic's condition could be caused by two glasses of wine.

Dr. McNiven acknowledged that it was possible that mental confusion could be caused by an emotional shock and his bloodshot eyes by working outdoors.

Dr. Niven acknowledged that it was possible. Father Knech testified that he had gone to Mr. and Mrs. Krancevic's home for dinner. He said he had been with Mr. Krancevic from 4:30 p.m. until the time of the accident at 9:30 p.m.

Vernon Hospital To Be Extended

VERNON (CP) — Construction will start in June on the new $250,000 mechanical wing of the Vernon Jubilee Hospital, to house a new boiler room and laundry, the hospital building committee announced Wednesday. It is part of a $1,874,000 renovation and extension program for the 100-bed hospital.

In that time, Mr. Krancevic had drunk only two small glasses of wine. One before dinner, one after.

WINE SAMPLE

Mr. Hummel produced a sample of the wine in court and brought in evidence of an analyst to show that this amount would contain the same quantity of alcohol as three-quarters of a bottle of beer.

Board Urged For Area's Parks, Play

By IAN STREET
Community Welfare Council of Greater Victoria last night called for establishment of a combined parks and recreation commission serving the four local municipalities.

The bulky report of a survey of community recreation needs, 18 months in preparation, attacked what it termed the "singular lack of public recreation services, program and leadership provided by municipal authorities."

It also said that while Greater Victoria is fortunate in the large number of private organizations offering recreational activities, and in volunteers who make these activities possible, there are "many gaps in service" and in places "chaos and confusion" as well.

"This is due to the lack of co-ordination and leadership which can be provided only by a properly organized and adequately staffed public authority," the report said.

It also called for joint municipal action on:
• Construction "at the earliest possible time" of a down-town centre to provide a full recreation program for senior citizens.

• Acquisition of land in co-operation with the provincial government and Capital Improvement District Commission for parks and other recreational uses.

• Development of a joint plan to upgrade community recreational facilities which, the report said, "in many ways
... have fallen far short of accepted standards." Priority was urged for swimming pools.

• Entering an agreement with school boards in Greater Victoria and Saanich districts to obtain use of school facilities for a broad recreation program after school hours.

The report said establishment of the proposed parks

Sub-Zero Day In Winnipeg

WINNIPEG (CP)—Winnipeg's temperature dropped to one below zero Wednesday morning in the coldest April 11 since 1961, when the low recorded was eight below.

Seething JFK Raps 'Greed' Of Big Steel

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Kennedy yesterday accused "a tiny handful" of steel executives with ordering price increases in defiance of the national interest and with "utter contempt" for the American people.

The president said executives of "big steel"— giant steel producing firms— showed irresponsibility that forced him to reconsider his plan to give tax relief to the steel industry. He added that federal agencies and Congress were investigating possible anti-trust action.

Kennedy exhibited cold fury seldom, if ever, seen before in denouncing the $6-a-ton price increase that came only five days after an administration-backed contract was signed by steel labor and management.

The president denied the steel companies' contention that the increase was needed to offset higher production costs. He said the labor department had informed him that "employment costs per unit of steel output in 1961 were essentially the same as they were in 1958."

He said he found it hard to believe that steel executives, "whose pursuit of private power and profit exceeds their sense of public responsibility, can show such utter contempt for the interests of 185,000,000 Americans."

"Some time ago I asked steel American to consider what he would do for his country, and I said the steel industry," Kennedy said.

"In the last 24 hours we had their answer."

Giant Frigates In Navy Program

OTTAWA (CP)—A new ship program for the Canadian Navy costing a minimum of $270,000,000—eight Canadian-built frigates and three British conventional submarines—was announced in the Commons Wednesday by Defence Minister Harkness.

The submarines will cost at least $18,000,000 each and will be purchased out of British production of the non-nuclear Oberon class.

Britain is expected to buy defence equipment of approximately equal value in Canada.
Two possibilities are the de-

Officially said these negotiations concern British defence purchases in Canada.

BIGGER WARSHIPS
The eight frigates, slightly larger than present St. Laurent, Restigouche and Macdonald class destroyers, will have a basic cost of $30,000,000 each.

Mr. Harkness said the first frigate will be laid down in late 1962.

DEVELOPMENT CONSTRUCTION
Outside the Commons, officials indicated construction will be allocated among the major shipyards in Canada. This was done in the case of the 30-destroyer program now nearing an end.

There will be a gap between the end of the destroyer program and the start of frigate construction but officials said this should not create any major problem for the yards.

MISSILE SYSTEMS
The frigates will carry two missile systems, one a medium-range anti-aircraft missile and the other a short-range anti-aircraft and anti-missile system.

They will carry helicopters and will be fitted with a full filtration system and a stabilization system to cut down the roll of the ships caused by the heavy seas. They will have a limited troop transport capacity and will carry heavy gun for surface - to - surface action and shore bombardment.

WAITED WORD
The RCN and Canadian shipbuilders had long been waiting for a government announcement on a new naval program.

It is understood the defence department recommended that the government acquire six submarines, primarily to train the surface anti-submarine fleet.

Vice-Admiral Harry DeWolf, former chief of naval staff, has said that the RCN has an immediate need for at least 12 submarines.

The navy hopes to retain the services of the three submarines it now has on loan from the Royal and United States Navies.

FIVE-YEAR LOAN
Two RN subs operate out of Halifax and are manned mainly by British crews. The American sub Gato is on five-year loan to the RCN and is based at Esquimalt, B.C. She is manned by a Canadian crew.

Officials said it is possible the RCN may obtain the first Oberon class sub one year after the start of the order.

CREW OF 85
It is believed the government had not intended to announce the program until the defence production - sharing deal with Britain was firm. However, the announcement apparently was made because of the expected early dissolution of Parliament for a general election.

The Oberon displaces 2,610 tons submerged. She carries a crew of 85 and eight 21-inch tubes for homing torpedoes.

The first sub of this class was completed in November, 1959.
The second was completed last

Warship Prospects
Please City Yards
Victoria shipyard officials were pleased last night to learn that at least one of the RCN's new missile-armed frigates will be built here.

Victoria MP A. deB. Mc-
Phillips said in Ottawa yesterday that a Victoria shipyard will unquestionably receive a contract for one of the eight new warships.

He said he was confident of this and that a second of the new warships would also be constructed on the Pacific Coast.

McPhillips assured
"I have been concerned over quite some period of time with new construction of warships and have, heretofore, assured the Victoria shipyards that there would be new construction of this kind," Mr. Mc-Phillips said.

Angry Carpenters Quit Convention

VANCOUVER (CP)—The United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America walked out of the policy convention of the Canadian Labor Congress Wednesday and promptly disclosed that it had stopped its per capita payments to the CLC.

Peter Terlich, international treasurer of the 64-member that a stop-payment order had been made on the union's $4-800 cheque for March per capita payments.

In an interview, Mr. Terlich said international president M.

were being withheld in a tele-

Gorgeous Gorge for '67 Wins Pat from Mayor

Plan to develop the Gorge into a community recreation area as a project to mark Canada's centenary in 1967 has considerable merit, Mayor R. B. Wilson said yesterday.

"It should be a development that could be shared by everyone," he said.

The plan, suggested in a brief sub-

De Gaulle Replaces Premier

PARIS (Reuters)—President de Gaulle will replace Premier Michel Debre Saturday with Georges Pompidou, one of the president's closest advisers, government sources said Wednesday.

The move is reported to be aimed at clearing the way for an ambitious program of domestic reform with strong left-wing appeal.

Pompidou, managing director of Rothschild's Bank here, is little known to the public. Regarded in inner circles as one of France's most brilliant men, Pompidou is a longtime follower of de Gaulle. He also in-between the French government and Algerian National Insurgent leaders.

Traditional Bread, Water Stays on Navy Brig Menu ...

But Drumming 'Out'

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The U.S. Marine Corps has banned "drumming out" ceremonies like the one used in conduct discharge.

The corps said it had completed its investigation of the incident and a directive would be issued ordering that the centuries-old discharge ceremony "is not to be used."

City Driver Tries Indianapolis 500

By JIM TAYLOR

Early next month, Victoria's Ed Kostenuk will pull on his fireproof suit, tuck himself into his crash helmet, and make Canadian car racing history.

Kostenuk, 17 years a race driver, has entered the Indianapolis 500, set for May 30.

It's a step no Canadian driver has ever taken. No Canadian before Kostenuk has ever tried, much less been accepted for the biggest race of them all.

And Kostenuk will have a few things going for him. He'll be driving the car Roger Ward drove to a third-place finish last year, for Leader Card Racers, one of the biggest names in the game. His equipment, his car and his pit crew will be first-class.

Yesterday in Indianapolis, the papers were full of the news that the Indianapolis was at last an international event. Last night in his office, surrounded by pictures of racing cars, his desk heaped with racing manuals, Kostenuk explained how and the why.

"It's not for glory," the 23-year-old trucker said bluntly. "It's for money."

"I look at this thing from a business standpoint, and just by qualifying I can make more money than the average guy does in a year. That's enough reason for me."

Kostenuk, who started driving as a 17-year-old at Langford Speedway, has been hired as the driver of the third car in the triple entry of the Leader Card organization. The others will be Ward, a former Indianapolis champ, and Len Sutton, a long-time racing buddy of Kostenuk's from Portland.

"Len was the man who made it happen," Kostenuk said. "Last August I went back and passed my rookie test to qualify as a championship driver. This year Len knew they needed a third driver and he asked them to give me a chance. They said yes."

So it is that Kostenuk, whose only trip around the Indianapolis track was a crawl around in his station wagon, heads out next Thursday, bound for Indianapolis with his wife, Betty.

"She ain't happy about this," he says with a rueful grin. "But she isn't going to divorce me either."

He'll start his practice runs April 28. Then on May 12 he'll join about 65 or 70 other drivers and try to qualify for one of the 33 starting spots in the 500.

To do it, he'll have to clock in about 145 miles per hour lap time.

"But if I can do it . . ." he says, and you can see the dollar signs in his eyes.

"Winning driver hauls in about $120,000. Maybe it's silly to talk about first place, but even to finish last is worth $5,500 at least."

"Normally, you have to drive on the championship trail races for a year before they let you enter the 500," he explained. "But because of the 'first Canadian' angle, they let me in just on my qualifications."

Those qualifications include being one of the northwest's top drivers for years, a driver with a reputation of being cool and careful as well as skillful. The 500 has no time for show-offs or hotheads.

"I've got the car, and I've got the equipment," Kostenuk said. "That sort of leaves the rest up to me, doesn't it?"

VIEWS of SPORT

By Red Smith

There is a clear-eyed youth of 14 in this village whom Nature obviously designed to occupy the owner's cabin on a steam yacht, ornament the terrace of a villa on the Riviera, and pleasure himself with rich viands and rare wines while the beautiful babes of his preference laugh gaily and fling the dark meat out the window.

He has not, to be sure, made great strides in this direction as yet, but the signs are unmistakable. For several years now he has found it unnecessary to mow lawns, shovel sidewalks, or deliver papers because he gets all the half-dollars he needs betting on sports with his old man.

A year ago, for example, he picked—and backed—Cincinnati to win the National League pennant, followed by Los Angeles, Milwaukee and San Francisco, with the Cardinals and Pittsburgh battling for fifth place, the Cubs seventh, and Philadelphia eighth. In the American League he rated the Yankees best, Detroit second, then Baltimore, Chicago, and so on.

When his sire hoped to get well on the Patterson-McNesley fight, the young man declined to pick a winner but for 50 cents did consent to name the round—the fourth.

There was a wistful notion here that if this clear-eyed youth's slightly grubby palm were suitably greased, he might be induced to make his service available to readers of this paper, now that another baseball season is starting.

Maybe He Bet Rangers

However, his father, who is also his business agent, has been absent from his customary haunts lately. Chances are he bet the Rangers in the Stanley Cup playoffs and has gone underground. Consequently, the clientele is stuck with the same tout who has operated in this space in the past.

The supply of occult powers being sorely restricted here, it may be best to squander them on the National League where they are needed. In the last four years, four different teams have won the pennant. This may reflect an exiguous balance of strength throughout the league or it may indicate an over-all weakness. In either case, the end product is confusion.

In such a situation, string along with the club that has the highest content of seasoned, proficient professionals. That's Milwaukee, with its Arons, Adcock, and Mathews, its Crandall, Spahn, and Burdette. Start with the Braves.

If there is going to be one big move by some dark horse in this race, as there has been every summer lately, then St. Louis seems a likely candidate for this role. Put the Cardinals second.

California has had major league franchises for four full seasons, but Californians have not yet seen major league ball under major league conditions. They have seen assorted versions of the game, as played in minor league Seals Stadium and Wrigley Field, as played in San Francisco's new wind tunnel and in that house of horrors called Memorial Coliseum in Los Angeles. The Dodgers have many bright young men who could be unnerved by sudden exposure to big league ball in Chavez Ravine. Third place.

Rough and Muscular Crew

The Giants are a rough and muscular crew, frequently as rough on themselves as on the opposition. Fourth.

This leaves the league's two most recent pennant-winners to contend for one remaining place in the first division. The Pirates got home first in 1960 because virtually everybody on the team enjoyed his finest season, ditto the Reds in 1961. Comparing their post-season to performances against the Yankees, one has no choice but to place Pittsburgh fifth and Cincinnati sixth.

After the Cubs, whose batters led the league into total bases last summer, we reach the Johnny-come-latties. The Mets haven't enough of anything anywhere, except money. Yet they have some pros on the field and nothing but pros in office and dugout. They'll win some, maybe more than Philadelphia, probably more than Houston.

A year ago George Weiss and a friend were chatting about the Yankees.

"You know, George," the friend said, "they could have their troubles this year. Ford's got that calcium condition in his arm and Turley's strictly a question-mark and Bobby Shantz isn't out there in the bullpen any more. Houk will have Bill Stafford from the start of the season, but the only other new pitcher is that kid out of Class D, Ron Sheldon. They could be hurting real bad for pitchers."

"Who's going to bet 'em?" Weiss said.

"Well," the guy said, "nobody."

Play that record back, kids. The others don't matter.

Grand-Slammer Breaks Up Battle; Pitcher Hurls 12-Inning Shutout

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Boston right-hander Bill Monbouquette pitched the first 12-inning shutout in the American League since 1958 Wednesday, blanking Cleveland 4-0 on a four-hitter. He won a pitcher's duel from rookie Ron Taylor when Carroll Hardy hit a grand slam homer.

Monbouquette allowed the Indians only one hit through nine innings, then held on until the Red Sox finally came up with four in the 12th on Carl Yastrzemski's triple, two intentional walks, and Hardy's first-pitch homer.

Taylor, 24, a right-hander up from Salt Lake City, finished with a 10 - 11 record. Monbouquette's 12 - 11 record was the first in the league since Baltimore's Hal (Skinny) Brown fashioned one Aug. 26, 1958.

RAINED OUT
Minnesota's Camilo Pascual tossed a four-hitter at Kansas City for an 8-0 victory in the only other AL game played. Detroit and Washington were rained out. The other clubs were not scheduled.

In the National League, St. Louis ruined New York's return to the senior circuit, whipping the debutants 11-4 in a night game as Cardinals' great Stan Musial went 3-for-3.

Mills' Jaw Breaks Arm
A 15-year-old boxer is nursing a broken arm after taking a swing at former world heavyweight champion Freddie Mills here Tuesday.

Mills, visiting a boys' club, invited flyweight John Block to "punch me as hard as you like—I'll keep my hands behind my back."

Block let loose a solid straight right at the famous iron jaw—and slumped to the ground with a broken arm.

RIGHT SHOULDER UNDER

These who swing their shoulders on a too-level (horizontal) plane usually hit down the left side of the fairway. The principal cause of this is an overaction to hit the ball and a resulting too-early use of the right hand on the downswing. As in this illustration, the right shoulder stays too low on the downswing, moving the clubhead into the ball in a closed (facing left of the target) position.

As the downswing starts, close the right elbow back to the side and move the right shoulder toward a point where it will pass under the chin at impact. The shoulders, in fact, should approximate the intended flight line at this point and even at impact. This helps assure square contact and straight ball flight.

Tahsis Accident

Logger Killed By Steel Plate

CAMPBELL RIVER—A huge steel plate probably caused the death of a 27-year-old Tahsis Logging Co. employee last Friday, a coroner's jury learned Wednesday.

The jury ruled the death of Herbert Van Duyn in Campbell River hospital Monday was accidental and no one was to blame.

NO WITNESSES

RCMP Cpl. K. S. Sutherland of Tahsis said there were no witnesses to the accident but indications were one plate fell while Van Duyn and companions using a big shovel were removing steel plates in the machine shop.

When the plate fell, Van Duyn lost his balance and dropped to the cement floor of the shop. The plate landed on him, edge first.

TO OFFER PART

Dr. J. Ross testified Van Duyn suffered a skull fracture, broken collarbone and multiple fractures to the upper part of the body.

Van Duyn's parents flew from their home in Holland and were at his bedside when he died in hospital here.

Handicapped in Alberni Start Third Business

By MARGARET TREBETT

PORT ALBERNI—Third handicapped person to start a new business in this area since the Help the Handicapped Association was former last fall is Mrs. H. R. (Kathleen) Pickles.

Kay's Telephone Answering Service will be operated in the home of the 57-year-old widow, partially disabled since childhood by polio.

With her lifelong disability aggravated by lameness following fracture of a hip in an accident three years ago, Mrs. Pickles seldom goes far from her house at 308 Fifth Avenue North. Her business will be carried on from a telephone desk in a corner of her living room.

She hopes small local firms will use her services to have messages relayed and for general office work. She will take orders and answer inquiries for out-of-town companies.

Mrs. Pickles will allow commercial travellers to use her phone, give them the use of her typewriter or will type their letters and orders.

Born in Dewsbury, Yorkshire, she was employed for many years in the accountancy department of a Leeds engineering firm. She types rapidly and accurately with her right hand, using the polio-crippled left hand on shift key

Active in Community

She came to Port Alberni in 1950 to marry Harry Pickles, whom she had known in Dewsbury and hadn't seen for 28 years. Until Mr. Pickles' sudden death in 1950, the couple was active in community affairs. Mrs. Pickles has continued her membership in the Order of the Royal Purple for which she was secretary for five years.

James Speedie, special placement officer with the National Employment Service, says: "We are hoping it will prove successful. It should be of special value to small businesses not yet in a position to have full-time office help."

Plans are to set up two more handicapped persons in business. Capital is provided by a sponsoring group which is reimbursed when the business is self-supporting.

RALPH WOODHEAD CROSLAND... rich days recalled

Last of Line

Sweet Pea Pioneer Still Active at 84

By KLAUS MUENTER
DUNCAN—Millions of seeds have gone through his hands in almost half a century of sweet pea seed farming and even now, at 84, Ralph Woodhead Crosland longs for the sun to prepare the soil for another season.

Mr. Crosland's eyesight has weakened but his mind is sharp and he is still in love with the seed farm he founded with his brother Samuel in 1915 at Cedar Creek near Duncan.

Memories of the stately home of his father, a woolen manufacturer in Yorkshire, and of the Cowichan Valley awakening under busy pioneer hands are his companions.

Mr. Crosland is the last of his line after his brother's death in 1945 and the once-large farm of 25 acres of seedland has shrunk to three acres of cultivated soil.

For several decades sweet pea seeds were shipped to 12 large seed firms and at times a dozen local people grew seeds for the Crosland brothers so the Cedar Creek farm could fulfill its many contracts.

What began shortly after the First World War on a small scale grew into a big operation and renowned seedmen from the Old Country as well as this continent came to Duncan to study the brothers' methods.

Mr. Crosland recalls hundreds of people arriving in special trains to admire the colorful harvest lined in endless rows with up to 30 pickers engaged in picking and sorting the seeds as to color, type and quality.

The soil was at one time prepared by hand and enriched by the manure of Yorkshire swine also bred by the brothers.

The Duncan-grown sweet peas were to be found almost everywhere, in the Empress Hotel and department stores in Victoria, in the public gardens of Halifax, on many experimental farms and in large shopping centres in Vancouver.

The present head gardener of Beacon Hill Park still comes every year to visit.

Streets decorated with flowers for the annual pea festival.

"It was almost as noted as the rose festival in Oregon," says Mr. Crosland.

"Maybe our times were simpler but nevertheless they were rich and beautiful."

MORE THOROUGH
Although the seed grower realizes the need for modern farm equipment he still contends work done by hand is more thorough.

Letters of appreciation still arrive at the farm from England, all parts of Canada and other nations. Now left with only one assistant, Mrs. Helen Frost, who also is linked with Cowichan's past through her pioneer grandfather William Herd, Mr. Crosland, erect and cheerful still puts in his work days.

His farm still produces sweet pea and other flower and vegetable seeds and tender seedlings already mark the paths of another colorful harvest.

Glennora Zoo On Move
DUNCAN—The reptile zoo at Glennora, only one of its kind in Canada, will move to a new location opposite the Duncan golf course south of here today.

The 36 by 24 foot reptile house, built by owner Jim Oyen three years ago, will be hoisted on a large truck of the local moving firm W. O. Brown Ltd. and 90 minutes later will be lowered on its new foundations four miles away.

All the animals will stay in their cages but the snakes will be put in sacks as a safety measure. The others will make the short trip in a truck or Mr. Oyen's car.

He and his wife, who hope to open at the new location in time for the Easter holidays, say moving the reptile house will cost $1,500.

Mr. Oyen bought the five-acre property recently from Hugh Ellison and will operate a concession stand. He and his wife and family came to Canada from Holland eight years ago.

B.C. Boats Eye Tuna For Ottawa

Victoria M.P. A. deB. McPhillips announced in Ottawa yesterday on behalf of Fisheries Minister Macdonald that a far-sighted program in relation to tuna fishing on the Pacific coast is about to be undertaken.

Long-range fishing for tuna by B.C. vessels will become a reality this year when four large purse seiners head for this fishery far west and south of B.C. waters.

Agreements have been signed between the federal department of fisheries and the owners of four vessels.

The agreements were entered into as part of a program to develop an active Canadian tuna fishing industry and it is hoped the results will benefit the whole Canadian Pacific fishing fleet.

Reeve Insists:

Merger Issue Alive

Amalgamation—if only between Victoria and Saanich—is still a live issue, Reeve Stanley Murphy said last night.

"I haven't abandoned the possibility of amalgamation between the two," he said. "It will be my business to find out if my council has any further interest in the problem."

Reeve Murphy said it is possible amalgamation will be discussed at Monday night's meeting of Saanich council.

IDEA REJECTED
A discussion on amalgamation recently ended with Saanich council rejecting a suggestion that the provincial government be asked to order a survey of the Greater Victoria area under a section of the Municipal Act providing for metropolitan government.

FROM SAANICH
The city's willingness to study amalgamation has been made quite clear," he said.

"Our willingness to consider a serious, formal study has been stated."

"Any further indication of willingness will naturally have to come from Saanich."

Maple Bay Group Split On Proposed Boat Ramp
MAPLE BAY—Some 20 members of the Maple Bay Taxpayers' Association expressed disapproval at a recent meeting of the proposed boat-launching ramp here and an equal number was in favor.

Opponents felt increased motor boating in Maple Bay would also increase the hazards to swimmers using the public beach and traffic conditions would become chaotic.

The president of the association, E. A. Larkin, said yesterday the final decision will be made by North Cowichan council but, if council favors a ramp the association prefers to have it installed south of the government wharf.

The idea of a boat-launching ramp originated at the annual meeting of Maple Bay taxpayers last November and council asked for suggestions.

"If it's fishing you want," crowed the Victoria man, "I can provide you with the trip of your lifetime."

"Say," replied the easterner, "I may take you up on that."

A few weeks ago the Victorian received a letter from the man who said he was making a special trip out to B.C. for the fishing.

Our city's booster promptly fired off a letter saying everything was arranged and he would personally guide the visitor to some of the finest fishing in the world.

The day he arrived in Vancouver the easterner phoned here to report he would come over the next day.

"Hope the fishing is really good over there," he chuckled. "I've already turned down three invitations to stay here and fish."

"You come right over," thundered his Victoria host. "We have everything here."

"Let's go," he joyfully shouted as he strode into the Victoria man's office next day. "Well... wait a minute,"

Construction Down, Up In Duncan
DUNCAN—Building permits in March amounted to $12,150 compared with $50,613 for the same month last year, officials said yesterday at city hall.

The total for the first three months, $59,765, showed a slight increase over the total in the same period last year, $56,503.

In North Cowichan, March building permits of $63,699 showed a sharp increase from $36,450 for the same month last year, said the municipal office. Total for the first three months is $187,888, compared to $131,538 last year.

Nanaimo 'Bigger'
The Senate in Ottawa yesterday approved a change in the name of the federal riding of Nanaimo to Nanaimo, Cowichan and The Islands.

It gave second reading, approval in principle, to a measure supported by W. F. "Bud" Matthews, Conservative M.P. for the riding, and approved by the Commons last week.

Local Parks Too Small

Play Programs Here Far Behind Big Cities

Recreation facilities in Greater Victoria are behind most similar services in other major Canadian cities.

The Community Welfare Council here recently sent a questionnaire to Halifax, London, Hamilton, Edmonton, Windsor, Ottawa and Calgary. It found out:

• Five cities have a recreation commission or its equivalent. Ottawa has an active recreation department headed by a commissioner responsible to city council. Locally, Oak Bay, only municipality with a recreation commission, has no full-time staff.

• All seven cities operate a summer playgrounds program from eight to 12 weeks. Saanich playgrounds function eight weeks, Victoria and Oak Bay five weeks. Esquimalt has no program.

• All seven cities operate some form of year-round public recreation program and all but Halifax and Calgary operate community centres. In Greater Victoria the only winter programs are Memorial Arena and Esquimalt Municipal Sports Centre with some club activity sponsored by Oak Bay recreation commission.

• All the cities except Calgary have publicly-sponsored recreation programs and facilities for senior citizens. Here, where those over 60 are most numerous, Oak Bay has the only municipally-sponsored club for senior citizens.

All seven cities have outside swimming pools ranging from one in Halifax to seven in Windsor. Greater Victoria has none. These cities except Halifax also have more indoor pools open to the public.

A comparison with accepted planning standards showed Greater Victoria "at first glance" to be reasonably supplied with playgrounds and playing fields. The report added:

• "The main problem, however, is that existing parks are too small to provide the necessary facilities."

To illustrate, some 1,500 league games are played in seven leading sports using park fields and 80 per cent of these games are played in Victoria. And this includes public facilities only.

Parental and public apathy are among the most pressing problems reported by the Community Welfare Council of Greater Victoria in its survey of recreation needs.

The report said Scouts, Guides, boys and girls softball and playground groups "in particular feel they could be getting more support from parents."

The report added: "If meagre attendance at some of their meetings called especially for parents is anything to go by, their criticism is certainly not unwarranted."

The public also has a duty to help, it added.

"The time is ripe for the establishment of some authority to move in this matter," the report said.

"Far and away the most crying need" disclosed by the survey is for additional space and facilities. Second "but some considerable way behind" was the plea for more and better trained leaders. Few replies mentioned money.

Cloth Easy to Spot

Fishboat and pleasure craft operators in B.C. coastal waters will be asked to carry a special home-made distress signal to warn aircraft of trouble, a department of transport official told the Colonist last night.

Capt. J. C. Barbour of Vancouver, search and rescue co-ordinator for B.C. area, outlined the plan in an exclusive telephone interview.

REPORTS ASKED
An orange fluorescent cloth placed on a hatch or cabin top can be seen from as high as 1,500 feet and would help rescue aircraft pick out the boat in trouble below, he said.

The plane itself wasn't visible," he said.

All commercial aircraft will be instructed to make sighting reports to the rescue co-ordination centre in Vancouver, and all boat operators in this area will be asked to carry the signals on board.

Capt. Barbour, 53, who formerly served in the merchant marine and the Royal Canadian Navy, hit upon the signal idea recently while watching an aircraft land some distance away.

"All I could see was the tail, which was painted a fluorescent, orange-red color. The plane itself wasn't visible," he said.

Civic officials from all over North America plan to visit Seattle this summer to observe the monorail in action.

'Elmer' Safety Drive Put Off Until Fall

The "Elmer the Elephant" school safety campaign, originally scheduled to go into effect in late March, has been postponed until next fall. Monorail Solves Traffic Problem

By ALEC MERRIMAN

SEATTLE—We found the sensation of skimming above Seattle streets on the Alweg monorail somewhere between that of flying in an aircraft over a big city and that of taking off from a London station in a British electric train. As a matter of fact, there was little time for sensation. We took off from beneath the Space Needle symbol of the Seattle world's fair, and one-and-a-half minutes and one-tenth miles later we were at the downtown Seattle Westlake Mall terminus of the monorail.

There is no doubt in our minds that the monorail is the best way to get to and from the Century 21 Exposition, especially after we had had two or three wild taxi rides through the middle of Seattle traffic to the fairgrounds.

There is no traffic problem on the monorail. You glide out of the station on one of two German-built electric trains, which scoot along on rubber tires, straddling concrete rails set 25 feet above the street. There will be two trains—one coming and one going—but only one was in operation when we visited the fair.

The trains average 60 miles an hour and glide easily to starts and stops. From the spacious windows Seattle's busy traffic—pedestrians and vehicles—can be seen jockeying about below.

Each four-car train seats 124 persons, but another 300

or so standees may crowd in. Fare is 50 cents, 25 cents for children, or 75 cents and 50 cents for round trips.

The monorail is billed as the "transportation system of tomorrow" and is particularly interesting to British Columbians who amid grand publicity were promised a far northern B.C. monorail railway by the Wenner-Gren inventors, Rainier baseball park.

but the proposals fizzled out. The Alweg company financed the $4,000,000 monorail for the fair, but it is likely the city of Seattle will take over the system after the fair ends. Already the city is making tentative plans to build another monorail to the University of Washington area, and another to Seattle's

By IAN STREET

Community Welfare Council of Greater Victoria last night called for establishment of a combined parks and recreation commission serving the four local municipalities.

The bulky report of a survey of community recreation needs, 18 months in preparation, attacked what it termed the "irregular lack of public recreation services, program and manpower provided by municipal authorities."

MANY GAPS

It also said that while Greater Victoria is fortunate in the large number of private organizations offering recreational activities, and in volunteers who make these activities possible, there are "many gaps in service" and in places "chaos and confusion" as well.

"This is due to the lack of co-ordination and leadership which can be provided only by a properly organized and adequately staffed public authority," the report said.

It also called for joint municipal action on:

- Construction "at the earliest possible time" of a downtown centre to provide a full recreation program for senior citizens.

- Acquisition of land in co-operation with the provincial government and Capital Improvement District Commission for parks and other recreational uses.

- Development of a joint plan to upgrade community recreational facilities which, the report said, "in many ways... have fallen far short of accepted standards." Priority was urged for swimming pools.

- Entering an agreement with school boards in Greater Victoria and Saanich districts to obtain use of school facilities for a broad recreation program after school hours.

The report said establishment of the proposed parks commission is a top priority.

Gorgeous Gorge for '67 Wins Pat from Mayor

Plan to develop the Gorge into a community recreation area as a project to mark Canada's centenary in 1967 has considerable merit, Mayor R. B. Wilson said yesterday.

"It would be a development that could be shared by everyone," he said.

The plan, suggested in a brief submitted by the University Women's Club of Victoria, is for full-scale development of the waterway with a canal cut through to join Portage Inlet with the sea, construction of an Indian village and development of oriental tea gardens in Kinsmen Gorge Park.

"The plan has considerable merit," Mayor Wilson added. "It is the only suggestion that has come forward so far. There may be others proposed later but this has considerable merit."

The plan, which has received the support of the Victoria Council of Women, has been referred to the Capital Improvement District Commission by city council. The CIDC is conducting a study into ways and means of developing the Gorge. Investigations started before receipt of the UWC brief.

Angry Carpenters Quit Convention

VANCOUVER (CP)—The United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America walked out of the policy convention of the Canadian Labor Congress Wednesday and promptly disclosed that it had stopped its per capita payments to the CLC.

Peter Terzick, international treasurer of the 64-member Carpenters' Union, told reporters that a stop-payment order had been made on the union's $4,000 cheque for March per capita payments.

In an interview, Mr. Terzick said international president M. A. Hutchison notified the Congress that per capita payments were being withheld in a telegram sent March 28.

RECEIVE ASSURANCES

The telegram said further per capita payments to the national trade union centre will be withheld "until such time as we've received the assurance of the Congress that our organization will receive the same consideration as all others."

The telegram said the CLC method of adjudicating the Carpenters' Union quarrel with the CLC.

CANADA ORDERS NEW WARSHIPS

Seething JFK Raps 'Greed'

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Kennedy yesterday accused "a tiny handful" of steel executives with ordering price increases in defiance of the national interest and with "utter contempt" for the American people.

The president said executives of "big steel"—giant steel producing firms—showed irresponsibility that forced him to reconsider his plan to give tax relief to the steel industry. He added that federal agencies and Congress were investigating possible anti-trust action.

Kennedy exhibited cold fury when, if ever, seen before in denouncing the 84-ton price increase that came only five days after an administration-backed contract was signed by steel labor and management.

The president denied the steel companies' contention that the increase was needed to offset higher production costs. He said the labor department had informed him that "employment costs per unit of steel output in 1961 were essentially the same as they were in 1958."

He said he found it hard to believe that steel executives, "whose pursuit of private power and profit exceeds their sense of public responsibility," can show such utter contempt for the interests of 185,000,000 Americans.

"Some time ago I asked each American to consider what he would do for his country, and I asked the steel companies," Kennedy said. "In the last 24 hours we had their answer."

The president praised the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America for negotiating the "non-inflationary" contract.

Giant Frigates In Navy Program

OTTAWA (CP)—A new ship program for the Canadian Navy costing a minimum of $270,000,000—eight Canadian-built frigates and three British conventional submarines—was announced in the Commons Wednesday by Defence Minister Harkness.

The submarines will cost at least $18,000,000 each and will be purchased out of British production of the non-nuclear Ocean class.

Britain is expected to buy defence equipment of approximately equal value in Canada. Two possibilities are the Avondale of Canada Caribou transport plane and the Canadian CL-44 long-range transport. The former appears more likely to be acceptable to the British.

NEGOTIATIONS

Mr. Harkness said the submarine purchase is "subject to satisfactory completion of negotiations with the British government."

Officials said these negotiations concern British defence purchases in Canada.

DISPOSING WARSHIPS

The eight frigates, slightly larger than present St. Laurent, Restigouche and Mackenzie class destroyers, will have a basic cost of $30,000,000 each.

Mr. Harkness said the first frigate will be laid down in late 1963.

SHIPPING CONTRACTS

Outside the Commons, officials indicated construction will be allocated among the major shipyards in Canada. This was done in the case of the 20-destroyer program now nearing an end.

There will be a gap between the end of the destroyer program and the start of frigate construction but officials said this should not create any major problem for the yards.

MISSILE SYSTEMS

The frigates will carry two missile systems, one a medium-range anti-aircraft missile and the other a short-range anti-aircraft and anti-missile system.

They will carry helicopters and will be fitted with a full anti-aircraft system and a stabilization system to cut down the roll of the ships caused by the heavy seas. They will have a limited troop transport capability and will carry heavy guns for surface - to - surface action and shore bombardment.

WAITED WORD

The RCN and Canadian shipbuilders had long been waiting for a government announcement on a new naval program.

It is understood the defence department recommended that the government acquire six submarines, primarily to train the surface and submarine fleet.

NEED 13 SUBS

Vice-Admiral Harry DeWolf, former chief of naval staff, has said that the RCN has an immediate need for at least 13 submarines.

The navy hopes to retain the services of the three submarines it now has on loan from the Royal and United States Navies.

FIVE-YEAR LOAN

Two RN subs operate out of Halifax and are manned mainly by British crews. The American sub Grille is on five-year loan to the RCN and is based at Esquimalt, B.C. She is manned by a Canadian crew.

Officials said it is possible the RCN may obtain the first Ocean class sub one year after the date of the order.

CREW OF 85

It is believed the government had not intended to announce the program until the defence production - sharing deal with Britain was firm. However, the announcement apparently was made because of the expected early dissolution of Parliament for a general election.

The Ocean displaces 2,610 tons submerged. She carries a crew of 81 and eight 21-inch tubes for homing torpedoes.

The first sub of this class was completed in November, 1960. The second was completed last

Warship Prospects Please City Yards

Victoria shipyard officials were pleased last night to learn that at least one of the RCN's new missile-armed frigates will be built here.

Victoria MP A. de la P. Phillips said in Ottawa yesterday that a Victoria shipyard will unquestionably receive a contract for one of the eight new frigates.

He said he was confident of this and that a second of the new warships would also be constructed on the Pacific Coast.

MR. PHILLIPS ASSURED

"I have been concerned over quite some period of time with new construction of warships and have, heretofore, assured there would be new construction of this kind," Mr. Phillips said.

John Wallace, general manager of Yarrow Ltd., said

Herbert Hammill, general manager of VMD, said "we're very happy indeed. We certainly hope to participate in it."

BOUGHT SUBS

At the same time, Mr. Hammill was "a little disappointed" that the government is going to give its three $10,000,000 submarine contracts to British instead of Canadian yards.

He doubted whether Canadian firms could build the submarines for the same price but believed that Canadian yards should have been given the job anyway.

Ready, Set ...

Market Heads Split On Commonwealth

By HAROLD MORRISON

WASHINGTON (CP)—The president of the European Commonwealth said Wednesday, the future of the Commonwealth is the biggest issue in Britain's negotiations to join the six-country economic community.

Dr. Walter Hallstein, head of the Community's Central Commission, said there is general agreement among the Commonwealth partners that because of the uneasy state of world conditions the Commonwealth must be preserved as a political system.

SPLIT ON TARIFFS

But they are split on the question of whether the continuation of Commonwealth tariff preferences is essential in the preservation of the political structure, Hallstein indicated in a speech before the National Press Club.

"Only experience can tell which school of thought is correct," he said.

MAJOR VIEW

Later, Common Market sources close to Dr. Hallstein said the major view among the partners is that Canada and other Commonwealth countries could maintain their economic strength without the preference and that generally Europe and North America should work towards elimination of all preferences.

Overseas possessions of the Commonwealth countries now get preferential treatment in Europe in relation to other non-European competitors.

De Gaulle Replaces Premier

PARIS (Reuters)—President de Gaulle will replace Premier Michel Debre Saturday with Georges Pompidou, one of the president's closest advisers, government sources said Wednesday.

The move is reported to be aimed at clearing the way for an ambitious program of domestic reform with strong left-wing appeal.

Traditional Bread, Water Stays on Navy Brig Menu ...

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The traditional navy punishment of a piece of bread, a jug of water and solitary confinement will not be abolished.

This was the promise made yesterday by Rep. L. Mendel Rivers, chairman of a House armed services subcommittee considering Pentagon-requested changes in the uniform code of military justice.

Rivers said bread-and-water was "as much a part of the navy as the keel of a ship."

He said the traditional law of the sea was a "strong thing. We aren't going to fool with that."

The major change under consideration is a military proposal to enable officers to give enlisted men stiffer punishment without the benefit of a court martial.

Drumming 'Out'

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The U.S. Marine Corps has banned "drumming out" ceremonies like the one used in Norfolk, Va., last week for a young marine with a bad conduct discharge.

The corps said it had completed its investigation of the incident and a directive would be issued ordering that the centuries-old discharge ceremony "is not to be used."

Design for Victoria's coat of arms has been approved by Queen Elizabeth.

Her Majesty's approval was necessary as the royal crown is included in the design—based on the city's seal.
